State Bank Is Planned On BG Road

A group of businessmen and the president of Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank have applied to the Illinois Department of Finance to organize a new state bank in Buffalo Grove.

Roland W. Blaha, commissioner of banks and trust companies, said the application was for a state charter.

The new bank would be known as the Bank of Buffalo Grove and will be located on the east side of Buffalo Grove Road north of Dundee Road, Mark Arnove one of the applicants told the Herald. Arnove owns Marks Drug stores in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove.

Other organizers on the application include Neale A. Gripen-trog, president of the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank, a resident of Mount Prospect, and George R. Miller, co-owner of Gieske and Miller Lumber Co., Wheeling.

ALSO LISTED as organizers are Frederick E. French and Robert Parker Coffin, both of Long Grove. French is a member of Long Grove Board of Education and Coffin is a village official there.

Arnove said a new building would be built to house the financial institution if the state approved the charter.

Capitalization of the proposed bank will be $510,000 with capital stock of $300,000, a surplus of $100,000 and reserve for operating expenses $110,000.

CAPITAL STOCK consists of 30,000 shares at a par value of $10 each, the department of finance said.

Arnove said others were providing financial backing for the bank, but he said they did not want to be named.

Rotary Gives $50 to Fair

Wheeling's Rotary Club has contributed $50 toward the expenses of the Northwest Area District Fair to be held at Wheeling High School in April. More than 700 students must be fed that day while the fair is going on.

The Rotary group is the first to contribute to the affair.

SENIOR STUDENTS FROM Arlington, Elk Grove, Forest View, Prospect and Wheeling high schools were greeted on the steps of the Capitol by U. S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld (R-13th) during their recent visit to Washington, D. C. The students, guided by tour director Paul N. Mueller of Wheeling High School, took a seven-day tour which took them to Williamsburg, Va., Charlottesville, Va., Gettysburg, Pa., and Washington. While in the capitol city they toured the Supreme Court chambers, the White House, the Capitol and other historic sites.

Ekco Introduces Feeding System

Ekco Packaging, Wheeling, has introduced the "1-2-3 Volume Feeding System," a series of full-size, half-size, and one-third size disposable aluminum steam table pans designed for cost-cutting convenience in restaurants, catering, hotels, hospitals, schools and other institutional food service operations.

With the new system institutional foods can be prepared, packaged, frozen, shipped, reconstituted, and served, in the same container. Each pan functions as a combination package, bake pan, and disposable steam-table serving pan.

Ekco produces all three pan sizes in various depths to meet the individual needs of different food service operators. Included in the system is a stainless steel adaptor which fits standard, 12-by-20-inch steam table wells and adjusts both in length and depth to accommodate any pan in the system.

The "1-2-3 Volume Feeding System" offers one-way convenience to both packers and food service operators. Packers can prepare, package, freeze, and ship foods for institutional customers. The containers are lightweight and nestable, reducing inventory costs and packaging line set-up time.

FOOD SERVICE operators can reconstitute and serve, or heat and serve, without removing foods from their original containers, eliminating extra handling in transferring foods from package to pan to serving line.

Pre-packaged, prepared foods cut waste, offering tighter portion control and menu planning.

Foods prepared on-premise can be packed ahead of time to supplement ready foods supplied from packers.

The containers are disposable, eliminating capital investment in heavy gauge pans and further reducing labor and equipment costs in washing and drying reusable pans.

For operators already equipped with heavy gauge pans, the containers can be used as disposable pan inserts. (BB)

Wheeling High To Be Science Fair Host

Wheeling High School will be host to the North Suburban Science Fair April 1.

Some 500 exhibits from 50 junior and senior high schools in the northwest and north shore suburbs will be shown at the fair, said Mrs. Charlotte Mayer, a co-director.

In the junior high school division projects of grades seven, eight and nine will be demonstrated, while students from grades 10, 11 and 12 will display their projects in the senior high division.

Office Hours

Wheeling's Village Clerk's office will close at 3 p.m. today in observance of Good Friday, Mrs. Evelyn Diens, village clerk said.

The science exposition will include research papers, projects and films covering 14 different fields. These are aeronautics, anthropology, astronomy, botany, chemistry, conservation, mathematics, meteorology, microbiology, physics, and zoology.

Judges will include a scientist, a science faculty member from a college and a secondary or junior high level.

The rules of the contest say the student must be with a particular project when it is being judged. Each exhibit will receive three ratings—first award, second award or third award.

SOME 700-800 students are expected to participate in the fair, Mrs. Mayer said.

The project will be judged on scientific worth, educational value, originality, accuracy of information, effective presentation, thoroughness and comprehension.

Nine projects from Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling are entered in the fair at Wheeling High.

Science Fair Is Tomorrow

The 40th annual North Suburban District Science Fair will be held tomorrow at Wheeling High Schools.

The competition will feature exhibits from students of 50 schools, including Wheeling, Antioch, Zion, and other areas in the north and northwest suburbs.

Wheeling to Start Dunhurst Paving

The Wheeling village board awarded a bid of $242,292 to the Allied Asphalt Paving company in Hillside for the final phase of a three-phase road construction and improvement program to affect 75 per cent of the community.

Preparations for the first two phases of the program, which are centered in the Old Town and North Town areas of Wheeling, already have been completed, and work will begin this week. In addition to road improvements, new sewers also are being installed.

The third phase of the program will serve residents of the Dunhurst east and west area of Wheeling, and includes plans for a storm sewer. Some roads will be repaved and others will be ripped up and rebuilt.

The entire project is being financed by motor fuel tax funds from the state, and no assessment is being made on Wheeling residents. Work will begin on the program about 15 days following the signing of contracts.

Five bids were submitted for the construction, and the lowest one was accepted.

WHEELING—Public hearings have been set for April 21 on an ordinance to annex and rezone a site in an industrial center just south of Wheeling on which the Skil corporation of Chicago wants to build facilities. A petition was submitted Monday, and the village attorney was directed to prepare an ordinance to be presented tomorrow. Action will be taken following village elections April 18.

$3,000 Taken At Trust Bank

Wheeling HERA

Serving Wheeling and Buffalo Grove

FRIDAY, MARCH 31, 1967

5 Se

A man who posed as a repairman while two accomplices waited in a car robbed the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank of $2,500-$3,000 Thursday morning.

Carrying a tool kit, he was admitted behind the counter and pulled a small automatic pistol on a drive-in cashier, Nancy Wagner.

He ordered Miss Wagner to put the money in the tool box and sped away with the two companions. Three minutes after the 9 a.m. robbery, Wheeling Building Inspector Allan Ackerman reported a hit-and-run accident involving what police believe was the get-away car.

Ackerman said a 1964 bronze Cadillac hit another automobile at the intersection of Jeffery and Virginia Roads in the village and then sped south on Wolf Road.

FBI, STATE, and county police immediately converged in the Wheeling area. Police helicopters circled the northwest suburban area to search for the car.

The cashier was told, "Give me the money, I don't want to hurt anybody." He cautioned her "Don't push any buttons on ring any bells."

The holdup man was described as 30-35 years of age, five foot five inches in height, and dressed in a black hat, tan jacket, and dark brown trousers.

Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank is located at Dundee Road and Milwaukee Avenue, the major intersection in downtown Wheeling.

POLICE SAY Marshall Baling, vice president of the bank, also saw the armed robber.

About 9:30 a.m. a car fitting the description of the get-away auto was spotted at Palatine and Elmhurst roads. But when 14 squads rushed to the scene it was learned that it was not the same auto as involved in the robbery.

Wheeling police got another scare shortly after 10 a.m. when the bank alarm was accidentally set off. Officers rushed from the police department, which is just across the street from the bank, with guns in hand.

Police were questioning Miss Wagner, Baling and another witness so that composite pictures could be made of the robber. The third witness was the driver of the car which was involved in the accident at Jeffery and Virginia.

Authorities discovered the get-away car at noon and FBI agents were going over the auto "with a fine tooth comb." Wheeling Police said. The vehicle was stolen in Niles last night, police related.

5 Women To Appear On TV Show

Twenty-five women from District 7, Illinois Junior Women's Club, also will appear on the program.

'Not for Politics'

Plan Scanlon Testimonial

A testimonial dinner will be held for Wheeling Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon at 8 p.m., Saturday, March 11 at the Union Hotel.

The $25 per couple tickets were mailed to business establishments in Wheeling recently.

Roman Domas, owner of Domas Plumbing and Heating Co., contractors, told the Herald the dinner was being held "strictly for Ted (Scanlon)." He said the money collected from the dinner would go to Scanlon.

DOMAS SAID Scanlon had illnesses in his family over the past few years and needed the money. A special account will be opened at the Wheeling business folks and friends got together and decided to have it.

"There is nothing political in it," he added.

Speculation among some village residents was that the testimonial was being held to raise funds for the Greater Village Party (GVP).

Domas denied this was true. He said, "It's not for any campaign, just strictly for Ted."

TRUSTEE IRA A Bird, a leader on the Greater Village Party said he had no knowledge of the testimonial dinner until a short time ago. He also denied that any of the money would be used for the GVP business and industrial establishments were mailed tickets.

Friends of Scanlon's have been selling or offering to sell the tickets for at least two weeks.

CIRCUIT COURT Judge Walter P. Dahl is scheduled to be master of ceremonies at the dinner March 11.

Scanlon has been Village President in Wheeling for two years in April. Prior to that he was a justice of peace in the village. This was before the judicial review in Illinois.

He 'Repairs' Bank —a $2,000 Job

A man who said he had been sent for to do some repair work robbed the Wheeling Trust and Savings bank, 4 S. Milwaukee av., Wheeling, today of a tool box full of money, about $2,000.

He is believed to have escaped with two confederates in a gold-colored Cadillac.

He told Miss Nancy Wagner, 23, a teller, he was there to repair the drive-in tellers' cage, which is connected to the bank by a narrow corridor.

When she led him into the cage, he took a pistol from the tool box and forced her to dump the money into the box. He frightened her into remaining in the cage while he left.

Shortly afterward a woman motorist said her car was sideswiped by a speeding gold-colored Cadillac near the bank.

Fleeing Bandit Hits Car Driven by Woman

A gunman took $2,338 yesterday from a drive-in teller of Wheeling Trust & Savings bank, 4 S. Milwaukee av., Wheeling, while two companions remained outside. The robbers escaped.

The getaway car, stolen Thursday night at the Golf Mill Shopping center, rammed another car seven blocks southwest of the bank in a residential subdivision and sped on. It was found abandoned in the 1100 block of Wheeling road, 1 1/2 miles southwest of the bank in an industrial section of the suburb.

Carries Tool Box

Witnesses said three men were in the car when it was parked in the bank parking lot just west of the bank. Two walked away, while the driver walked thru the bank entrance from the lot, carrying a black tool box.

Several persons who saw the man, standing about 5 feet 5 inches tall, apparently assumed he was a workman as he walked from the lobby thru swinging doors, past the bank telephone operator, and down a hallway to the drive-in teller's cage of Miss Nancy Wagner, 23.

The robber entered the unlocked cage, showed a gun, and announced he didn't intend to hurt anyone and only wanted the money. Miss Wagner emptied the money from her cash drawer, including coins and bills up to $20 denomination, into his tool box.

Driver Away Alone

The robber returned to the car by the same route, drove away alone, and presumably picked up his companions nearby. The escape car rammed a car driven by Mrs. Emily Barkulis, 438 Virginia pl., Wheeling, as she backed from her driveway, causing damage estimated at $125.

As the robber car sped from the scene of this accident, two Wheeling public works department employes, driving by in a village car, saw what happened, started pursuit, but soon were outdistanced.

Twenty-five employes and several customers were in the bank at the time of the robbery.

Several Federal Bureau of Investigation agents joined Wheeling and other suburban police in the hunt for the robber and his companions.

The bank, then known as the Wheeling State bank, was robbed of $6,265 in 1953 but the robbers dropped the loot in their flight.

Blind German Attache Visits Area Schools

A cultural attache in the German Embassy in Washington visited Wheeling High School and Mark Twain School in Wheeling last week to review special education programs for the blind.

Dr. Heinrich Baumhof is the first blind person to the post in the German Embassy.

He came to Chicago visiting the Hadley school for the blind. But he told students at Wheeling High he wanted to review special education programs in the area.

Wheeling High has 10 students in its program for the blind and has extensive facilities for blind students.

THE IMPORTANT part of the program is that blind students are integrated into school life with sighted students, officials say. The blind students participate in a normal schedule for high school students.

It is hoped by teachers that this experience will help prepare blind students for life after they leave school.

"When blind students are integrated in a group of sighted students, the blind students can learn about the world that they must live in after leaving school, in this same situation the sighted students learn about blindness," commented Dr. Baumhof.

Those who are born blind and those who become blind later in life share the same handicap, although they may have different problems. Nevertheless, they both must contend with their disability, he added.

Dr. Baumhof believes that "the blind person must not try to hide his handicap but must confess it and make his own way in life."

He said that he first looks for the atmosphere of the school. He notices whether the atmosphere is loud or quiet, whether the school is modern or not, and also the attitude of the administrators and what type of programs they are interested in and how they try to solve their problems. He is trying to compare the American schools he has visited to schools in Germany and find what German schools can learn from schools in America.

DR. BAUMHOF went to a normal elementary school in Germany until the ninth grade. At this time he lost his sight and went to a special school for the blind. He then went to Heidelberg University where he was one of two blind students in attendance.

He has been the cultural attache to the German Embassy for one year, he said in an interview. Before entering the diplomatic service in 1961, Dr. Baumhof wrote for German newspapers and radio.

His job is especially related to all aspects of education. It included writing reports on educational situations in this country. In the Embassy he oversees some grants and scholarships for American students who would like to go to Germany to study.

Baumhof spent part of the morning talking with Thomas Shirley, principal of Wheeling High School; Roland Goins, assistant principal; Mrs. Nona French, and Mrs. Halcyon Peters, both resource teachers for the blind.

LATER HE then spoke to a social studies class. Students showed much interest in learning about German affairs and attitudes, said one school official.

At Twain he conferred with Principal Mrs. Mildred Tins and resource teachers there.

"Life is always challenging, life is always an opportunity," stated Dr. Baumhof during the question and answer period.

High Building Total Goes to Wheeling

Permits for building construction in unincorporated areas of Cook county in March were greatest in northwest suburban Wheeling township, according to a report released by the county building department last week.

A total of 26 permits were issued for construction valued at 2.6 million dollars in the township.

Second was Northfield township with 22 permits worth a total of $738,300 and third was Palatine township with 16 permits worth $384,457.

The least active in construction were Bloom, Lemont, and Orland townships, in each of which only one building permit was issued. Bloom's was valued at $85,000, Lemont's at $33,000, and Proviso's at $12,500.

Altho only four permits were issued for unincorporated Elk Grove township, their construction value totaled $473,000.

The work included apartment building construction, sewer installation, and additions to existing buildings. Sewer installation accounted for a total of 1.3 million dollars of the total 5.8 million dollars in construction costs thruout the county.

In other county areas, 11 permits were issued for Stickney, five for Worth, an dfour for Lyons township. Six permits were issued for Main, three for Leyden, one for Orland, two for Palos, and two for Rich township.

The single permit issued for Orland township was for work costing $324,000.

Wheeling Grooms Ambitious 'Birdie'

by GARY CASTLE

"Hallelujah! We've finally got a bright, new, funny, fast, crazy musical going for us," said John McLain, of the New York Journal American, when reviewing "Bye Bye Birdie." The Wheeling High School production of "Birdie" promises to be all this and more.

Performances are scheduled for March 31 and April 1, 7 and 8. Matinees will be on Friday afternoon March 31 and April 7.

THE STORY centers around the misadventures of a well-known rock-n-roll singer, Conrad Birdie, who has been drafted into the Army. Albert Peterson, an unknown songwriter, and his fiancée, Rosie, try to keep him out of trouble long enough to sing Albert's hopefully career-launching song, "One Last Kiss" on the Ed Sullivan Show.

In addition, Conrad is to symbolically bid farewell to the teenage girls of America by kissing one of his fans after singing the song. The story is hilariously intertwined.

"Birdie" is a teenager's delight and brings to mind the conflict between parents and students. In the play the adults sing "What's the Matter With Kids Today?" In contrast, the teenagers counter with "We've Got a Lot of Living To Do."

Other members of the cast are Jim Anderson, Ken Ball, Bill Cason, Jill Crawford, Scott Decker, Linda Felton, Larry Haynes, Jim Kellogg, Karen Kjellin, Dan Lau, Marcia Taug-

Members of the cast rehearse approximately three hours every night after school. Rehearsals are planned which will last from six to eight hours.

In addition, a 30-piece pit band is preparing the instrumental part of the show.

NOTHING HAS been spared to make the sets of "Birdie" as spectacular as possible. Total cost of the show will be about $3,000.

The play production staff is building the "telephone hour" set. "This is by far the most difficult set to construct, and many schools do not even attempt it," Eric Lidh, director, pointed out.

Characters include Albert Peterson, played by Walt Krier; Rosie Alvarez, Janet Buerger; Kim MacAfee, Linda Farkas; ner, Linda Nendel, Debbie Oates, Greg Omahau, Peggy Roche, Margie Schroeder, John Smart, David Spung, Joyce Waldoch, Sandy Waller and Bernie Zink graf.

High School Band Is Wheeling's Pride

Different communities have different things they list as their most important product. Waukegan has Jack Benny; Skokie has its new booklet on its new approach to open housing; and Highwood has its annual Highwood days.

Wheeling has its high school band.

The motto of the band, "Non Tam Pares—Quam Superiores" which means "Not as Good as, but Better Than," epitomizes its meteoric rise.

Band Has 160 Numbers

Among the 160-member band's latest accomplishments are its capturing the 1966 grand championship high school band award of the Minneapolis competition, release of two long-playing record albums featuring symphony, concert, and jazz music, and being named by President Johnson as the "Presidential Band of Chicago-land." The band has played for the President on five occasions.

The jazz section of the band recently won the Illinois State Band Jazz festival in Oak Lawn, and nine members also recently won superior ratings in the Illinois band solo and ensemble competition held in Mount Prospect.

Practice Hour Daily

During the football season, the 160 members of the marching band spend 2 hours each day and 1½ hours each Saturday in rehearsal. After the season, however, the marching band splits in two. The more advanced musicians make up the symphony band while younger members form the concert.

Each of these units rehearses an hour daily during the school year and plays many concerts, assembly programs, and clinics for nearby schools.

Comprising the remainder of the Wheeling instrumental music department are the beginning cadet, pep, jazz, and beginning bands, along with the strings and harmony-arranging classes.

The student enrollment in the department is 225 playing members, one of the largest in the country, according to Dean DePoy, founder and head of the music department.

The Wheeling "Wildcat" marching band takes its role as the Presidential Chicago band seriously. At the pre-game show of the Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers game last October, a musical and pictorial synopsis of Chicago's history was featured.

Start with "Chicago"

Starting its performance with a rendition of "My Kind of Town," the band moved into formations depicting Mrs. O'Leary's notorious cow and the fatal lantern, then the temperamental kick, which changes into a burning wall, and then a steam engine which pumps water, all to the tune of "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

The end of the fire, and most of Chicago, is illustrated by the band when it forms the water tower, the only structure left after the fire.

The rebuilding of the city then is enacted by the band in a giant pinrolling formation which depicts action and the shaping of a new city.

The world beyond the city limits is depicted by the band with its difficult marching transformation into a map of the United States with a giant American flag held by some of the members. This has been presented during the half-time at various sports events and takes 10 minutes.

"To perform, that is," said DePoy. "Not to prepare."

CHICAGO TRIBUNE, SUNDAY, APRIL 16, 1967

Wheeling Orchesis To Dance Tonight

Wheeling High School's Orchesis will present its annual program tonight and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater.

The show, "Let There Be Dance," is the high point of the year for Orchesis.

Highlights of the show include a Japanese dance, and interpretation of Carl Sandburg's poem, "Chicago," a dance with a South American beat, and a jazz number to "Pink Panther."

As a finale, all of the members will dance to "Mame."

THE ORCHESIS members participating in the show are seniors Shiela Giles and Caro lyn Perez. Juniors who are included are Barbara Aszman, Nancy Benedict, Carole Clark, Jeanne Glaver, Judy Javori, Linda Kyle, Bonnie Kivland and Nancy Lorenz.

Other juniors are Marlene Osterman, Lynn Pardee, Cynthia Pettigrew, Pamela Roth, Karen Rueffer and Marcia Taugner.

Tickets for the concert will be $1 and can be purchased at the door.

DEDICATION

6-Story Tower Is Under FAA

Top aviation and government officials will attend the dedication of the new Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) control tower at Pal-Waukee Airport at 11 a.m. Saturday.

The tower has been in operation since early this week.

Attending the ceremonies will be Edward Marsh, Midwestern regional director of the FAA; Kirby Brandon, Chicago director of the FAA; and Jack Wenzel, state director of aeronautics.

Political dignitaries coming to the dedication are U. S. Congressman Donald Rumsfeld (R-Ill.) and Cook County Pres. Richard Ogilvie.

The public is invited to tour the new six-story tower.

LOCATED AT Milwaukee Avenue and Palatine Road south of Wheeling Pal. Waukee Airport is privately owned by George Priester and his associates.

Installation of a FAA tower at a privately-owned air field breaks a long-standing precedent of the FAA. In the past, the FAA has equipped and manned only publicly owned air terminals because of the public expense.

But because of hazardous flying conditions at the heavily-trafficked airport, Priester obtained the control tower.

Priester said, "The government is always reluctant to spend federal funds on a tower for a private field. After working with them for nine years, however, the government said positive control operations were badly needed here."

lots could receive information about runway use and weather conditions.

Yocius said, "Personally I think an airport helps an area by attracting business and industry."

He said industrial firms locate near an airport primarily for the convenience of their executives who are traveling more and more by air.

Priester revealed that two companies are now considering building hangers at Pal-Waukee for executive airplanes.

Pal-Waukee, home base for nearly 400 planes ranging from puddle-jumpers to some of the latest million-dollar executive jets, also houses several flying schools.

PRIESTER bought the airport in 1953. It has five runways — the longest 5,100 feet — and three taxi lanes.

Only two other FAA-maintained towers at privately owned fields are in existence. They are located at the Redbird field near Dallas, Tex. and in Burbank, Calif.

PAL-WAUKEE has been afflicted with a number of in-flight and on-runway collisions in the past few years, Priester pointed out.

"Pilots were playing Russian roulette before in the air," Priester said. "With a positive control the percentage and possibilities of mishaps are very low."

Arrangements for installation of the control tower came after a survey showed that the airport had more than 300,000 airplane movements in a year — a number equivalent to many major United States airports.

Under the agreement with the government, Priester constructed the 65-foot, orange-and-white striped control tower at his own expense. The $100,000 structure was completed two months ago.

THE FAA expense includes installing some $15,000 in communications equipment plus manning the tower with a chief controller and seven assistants. They will be on duty from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Control tower chief, William Yocius estimated that the government will spend about $100,000 a year operating the tower.

"We are using taxpayers money to save a few taxpayers," Yocius pointed out. Main benefits of the tower, he said, will be air safety and expediency of traffic.

All pilots flying under visual flight rules within a five-mile radius of Pal-Waukee will be controlled by the tower. Planes operated by instrument will be cleared for landings and take-offs by the center control at O'Hare Airport with the coordination of Pal-Waukee's tower.

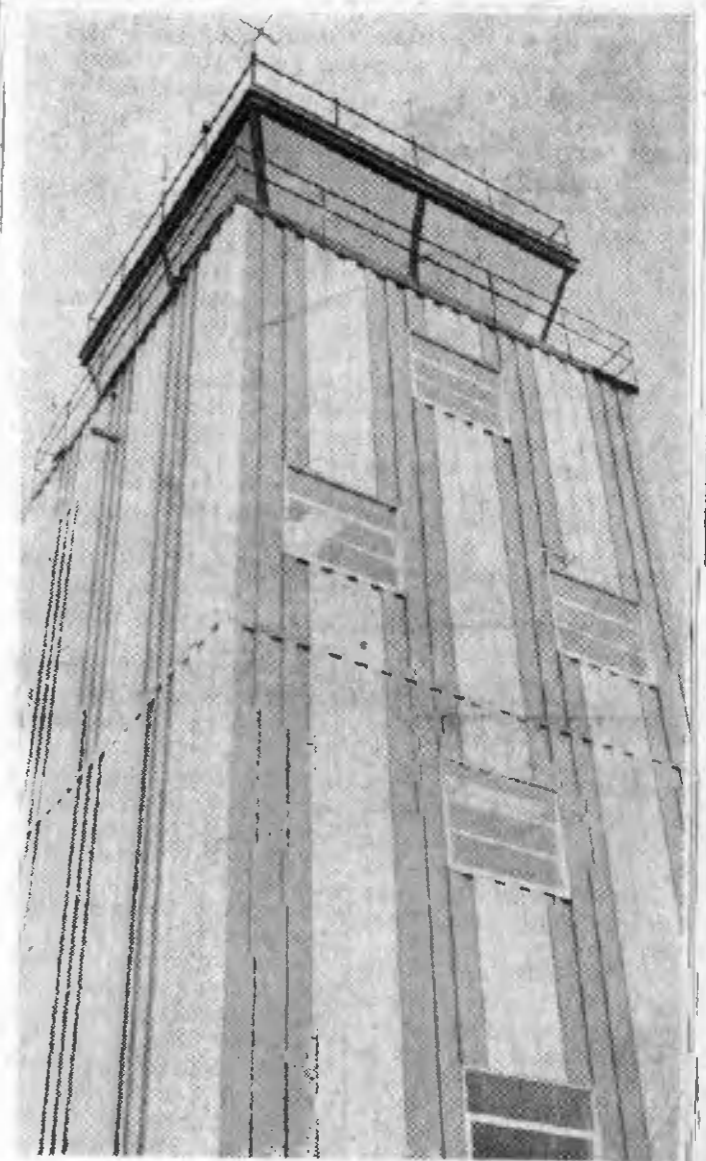

BEFORE, the field had only an "advisory" set-up where pi-

Plan Dedication

Dedication ceremonies for the housing of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) at Pal-waukee Airport is slated for Saturday, May 6 at 11 a.m. at the airport.

This will herald the first time the FAA has equipped and manned a private airport tower in the United States.

Palwaukee, located south of Wheeling, is the world's busiest non-commercial airports in the nation.

TORCH Plan

SUPPORT 'BIG BROTHER'

IT'S A LONG, LONG WAY DOWN for this bass clarinet player during Wheeling Park District's first outdoor band concert Tuesday. Conducted by assistant director Doug Peterson, the Wheeling High School Band entertained spectators at the Dunhurst Shopping Center. Band members played scores from George Gershwin's "Strike Up the Band," and "Hello Dolly." Two more concerts are scheduled during the summer.

by Nancy Benco
News Editor

The Wheeling Area Ministerial Association gave its wholehearted support Wednesday morning to the "Big Brother" program.

The program is one of many projects suggested by the steering committee of TORCH (The Organization Representing Community Hope).

Though TORCH had hoped the ministerial group would assume full responsibility for the project, area ministers felt this was too much.

Instead the eight pastors at the meeting agreed they would seek people for the program. They left the administration and financing up to the TORCH steering committee.

The association is comprised of ministers from churches in Buffalo Grove, Wheeling and Prospect Heights.

"BIG BROTHER" is a help program for fatherless boys. Surveys of the TORCH area bounded by Elementary School District 21 and High School District 214 indicated some 400 youngsters with only one parent or no parents.

Pastors of the ministerial association will begin to enlist men from their congregations to serve as "big brother" to these fatherless youths.

These men will be matched with youths having comparable racial and religious ties and socio-economic backgrounds. "Big Brothers" get together with youths about once a week to talk, go camping, and other activities.

Area ministers also hope to organize weekend camping trips to nearby church camps for those involved in the project.

The program aims at "encouraging a spiritual relationship" between man and boy rather than financial support.

In the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area, the program probably will begin modestly with some 50 Big Brothers. An orientation session and followup reports are anticipated to determine its success.

MINISTERS hope TORCH will allow one of its full-time staff directors to organize and administer the program. TORCH received a $325,000 federal grant for three years to carry out numerous community programs.

An initiator of TORCH, District 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill told the Herald Wednesday he was pleased with the ministerial support. He said he thought some administration and financing could be arranged through the federally-supported program.

Jones, Turbine Car To Appear at Show

Parnelli Jones, sixth place driver at the Indianapolis 500, and his turbine-engine car will be at the "Air Show '67," co-sponsored by the Wheeling Boys' Baseball Club Saturday and Sunday, June 24 and 25.

The show will be held at the Chicagoland Airport, Milwaukee Road and Route 22 in Wheeling.

Gates open at 11 a.m. and the show starts at 12:15 p.m. In addition to Jones, the show will have skydiving, aerobatics, wingwalkers, and racers.

Tickets of $1.50 for adults are available from all Wheeling baseball managers, coaches and members of the Wheeling Athletic Association Auxiliary.

Children under 12 are admitted. Wheeling Boys' Baseball will receive part of the proceeds from the show. The group will also man a hot dog booth.

Teacher Wins Scholarship

A $200 scholarship has been awarded to Mrs. Frances Katsura, fifth grade teacher at Alcott School, by the Wheeling Junior Women's Club-sponsored Dist. 21 scholarship fund for teachers of handicapped children.

Mrs. Katsura will take courses in special education in preparation for her September, 1967, assignment as a teacher of perceptually handicapped children. Mrs. Katsura has been a teacher in Dist. 21 since 1957. The scholarship fund for teachers of handicapped children was originated five years ago by the Wheeling Junior Women's Club. Most of the funds for the program were realized through the club's annual sale of Christmas cards.

Other local organizations have also donated money to the scholarship fund which was developed as a cooperative community venture. Support of the scholarship fund has made possible the special education training of a number of Dist. 21 teachers.

THE ALBERT HOLMEN residence, 372 Wil- lie, was chosen this week's "Home of the Week" in the Wheeling Beautification Com- mittee contest. Committee Chairman Chuck Mihalek pointed out the well-maintained upkeep of the grounds. An extra attraction is the refuse can be painted the color of the house trim. The home will be entered in the "Mr. and Mrs. Home Beauty Contest" held during Family Fair.

Publications Banquet Set At Wheeling

Wheeling High School's annual Publications Banquet will be held April 25, at 6:30 p.m.

The purpose of the banquet is to introduce next year's Spokesman and Lair staff members, recognize those of the past year and initiate new members into Quill and Scroll, the international honorary society for high school journalists.

A buffet dinner will be provided in the cafeteria by the Hilmer catering service. Toastmaster for the banquet will be Tim Sroka of Wheeling, Lair sports editor. Connie Andrew of Prospect Heights, Spokesman news editor, will give the invocation.

The program will continue in the Little Theater following the dinner. Ted Smart, NBC reporter, and former news editor for Paddock Publications, will give a short address for the parents and students in the audience.

THIS YEAR'S staffs will be recognized next, followed by the naming of the 1967-68 Spokesman and Lair editors.

The candlelight Quill and Scroll ceremony will begin with Linda Crain of Mount Prospect, president of the society, leading the initiation of new members.

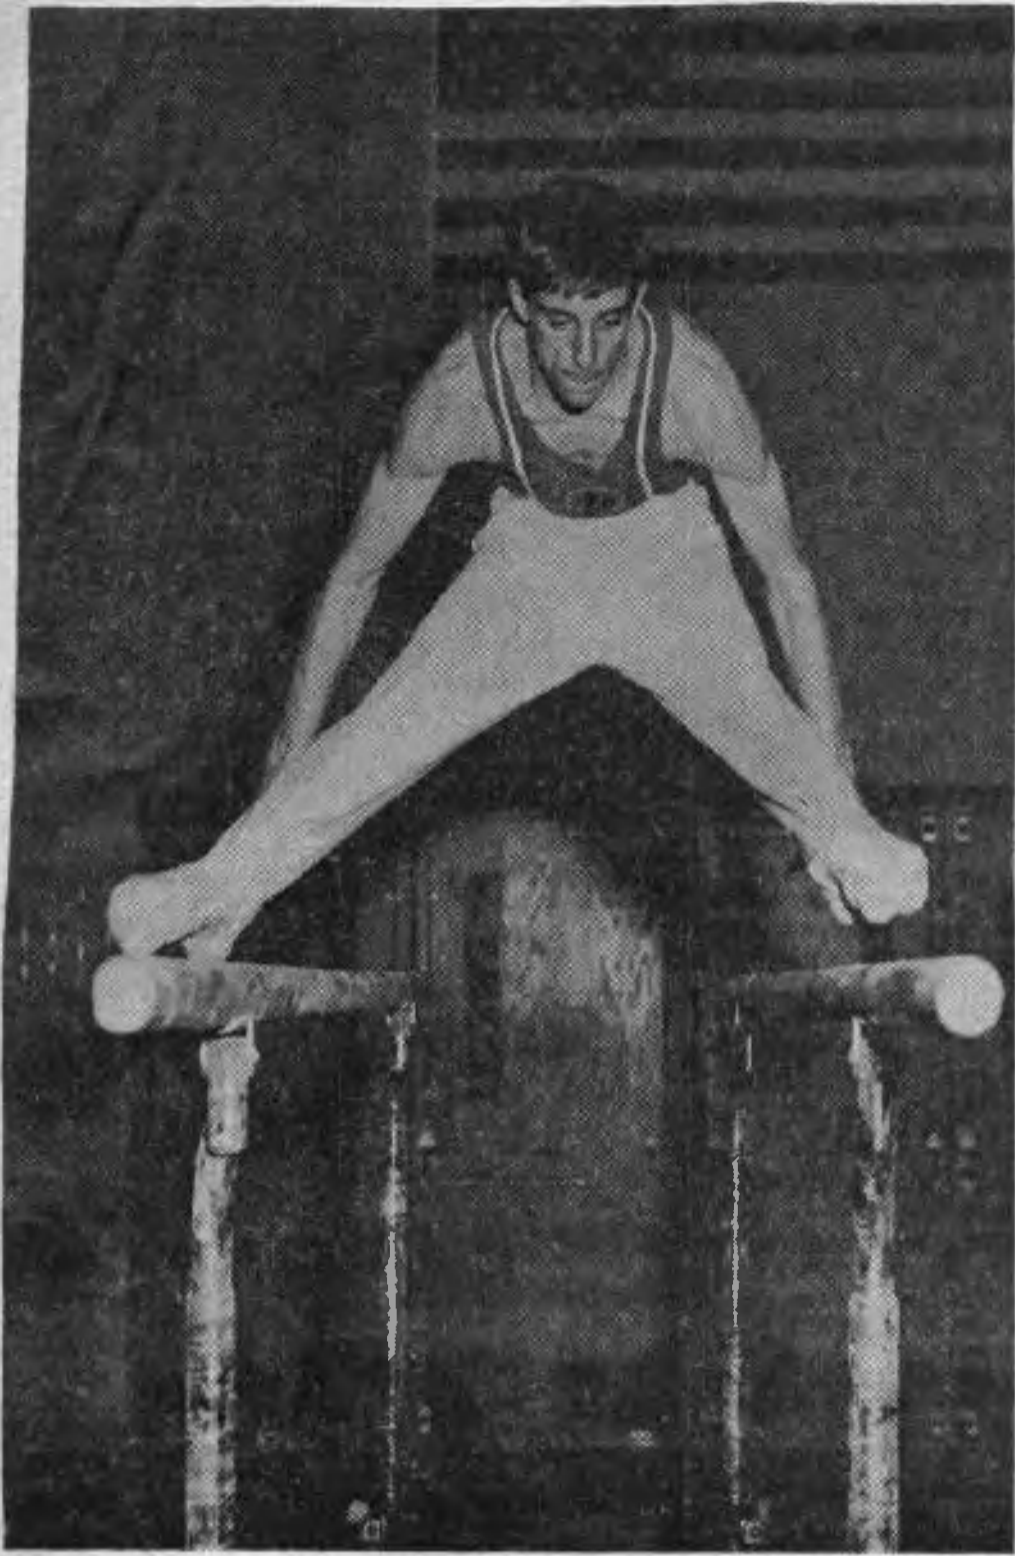

Current members of Quill and Scroll make up the initiating team. They are Connie Andrew, Maryann Keeney, Judy LeForge, Linda Crain, Vicki Solsberry and Tim Sroka.

Committee chairman for the banquet are Wayne Schennum and Linda Voltz, cafeteria; Sue Hight and Betty Guthrie, invitations; Harriet Brown, programs, Melani Van Petten, flowers, and Judy LeForge, finances.

TAKE ANOTHER LOOK! Motorists heading into the village from South Milwaukee Avenue find that Wheeling has a population of 11,800. Heading east on Dundee Road, motorists are welcomed by an 11,700 population sign. But it all evens out in the end. Wheeling's last official census in 1964 counted

More Members Being Sought

Beautification got off to a running start Wednesday. With determination and a host of ideas, the Wheeling Beautification Committee sped down the first leg of its long journey. The eventual goal: a well-groomed village.

During the organizational meeting, the members adopted measures to publicize the beautification program, to enlarge the membership of the steering committee, and to launch a clean-up on Dundee Road.

Setting the tenor of the group's first meeting was Charles Mihalek, 409 Meadowbrook, acting-chairman of the steering committee.

"BEFORE WE can be effective, we must create an image which will command attention," he told the seven members present.

He capsulized the approach in a phrase—"community awareness."

"Then we will ask for the cooperation of the public," Mihalek added.

To create that image, the committee agreed to hold a "Home of the Week" contest. Selection of a well-kept home and yard will be made by the committee. A photograph of the residence will appear in the Herald each Friday, beginning June 2.

The letter will be signed by acting-chairman Mihalek and sent to the engineering section of the State Highway Department.

LATER THE committee hopes to act in removing obsolete and illegal commercial signs along Dundee as well as Milwaukee Avenue.

The committee, taking a critical look at itself, voted to increase membership, mainly by soliciting village organizations for representatives.

Once the group has grown to about 15 members, permanent officers and a board of directors will be chosen. The board will act as a coordinating body for all projects.

Mihalek is acting-chairman and Mrs. Emmett McDougall, 338 St. Mary's Parkway in Buffalo Grove, is acting-secretary. Mrs. McDougall plans to move into the village later this summer.

OTHER publicity gimmicks, suggested by Mihalek and weighed by the committee, include anti-litter bags donated by businessmen, car decals, roadside signs urging "clean-up," a contest for a beautification slogan and trademark, and a speakers' bureau.

Attending the initial meeting were Mrs. Alf Wilson, Mrs. Lorraine Lark, Mrs. Charles Mihalek, Mrs. E. W. Stephan, Mr. and Mrs. Metzger.

A special meeting has been called for Thursday, June 8 at 8 p.m. at Heritage Park. Regular monthly meetings will be held the first Wednesdays.

New Street Signs Going Up Monday

New street signs are going up in Wheeling beginning May 15, according to Public Works Supt. Angelo D. Ventrella.

His department will begin installing the modern, illuminated signs in the Dunhurst area Monday. The new street markers will have a green background with white lettering.

They will replace some 300 of the old, black and white signs. The lettered signs will be constructed by the public works department.

Beautifying Discussion

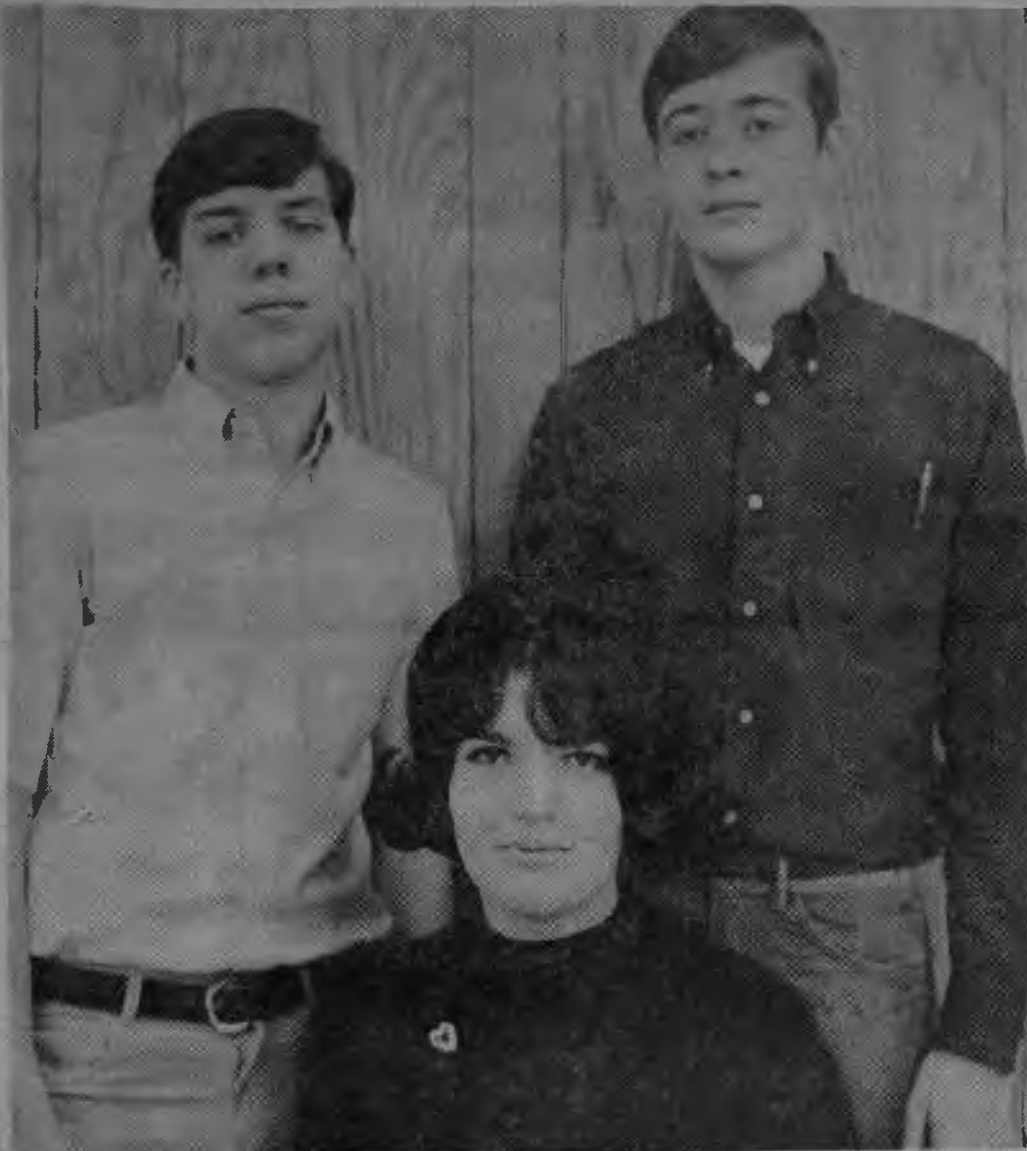

Interested in "beautifying Wheeling?"

Don't forget tonight's meeting of the Wheeling Beautification steering committee. The group meets at 8 p.m. at Heritage Park Field House.

During this initial meeting, the committee hopes to set forth its goals as well as organize its membership.

The group will also review "Pride," a successful beautification program enacted in Alton, Ill.

Rena Sargis of 404 W. McDonald Road, Prospect Heights, second place; and Bill Reed of 3 Hillside Ave., Prospect Heights, first place.

Wheeling 'Clean Up'

New Street Signs Slated

Wheeling's "Clean Up" campaign begins Monday.

In conjunction with the campaign, Public Works Supt. Angelo Ventrella announced that new street signs will be installed during the month of May.

Replacing the old black and white signs, the new markers will have a green background with white lettering. Ventrella said they will illuminate at night.

Some 300 street signs throughout the village will be replaced by public works crews.

LITTER BARRELS— the 55-gallon steel drums scattered about the village—will also get a new look. Ventrella said the drums will be painted dark green. Lettering on the barrels will read "Help Keep Wheeling Clean."

Ventrella urged citizens to use the barrels to keep the village litter-free.

He revealed that some residents apparently are using the barrels as garbage cans.

"The litter barrels are being used by a few profiteering citizens as garbage cans in order to avoid scavenger fees," he told the Herald. "This practice must stop. If it doesn't, I will have to urge the police department to take action."

The month-long campaign is the first phase of a general beautification step for the village.

For the long-range program, members of various civic groups are encouraging the formation of a steering committee to promote the concept of beautification.

INITIATORS of the program include the Wheeling Public Relations Commission, the Park District and the Junior Woman's Club.

Kick-off for their program is set for a luncheon May 17. At that time, plans for action will be presented.

In his official proclamation, Village Pres. Ted Scanlon said the "village should do all that is possible to foster the further beautification of our community." He urged citizen participation in the project.

Holmes Bands To Play Thurs.

The concert, cadet and beginning bands from Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School will perform at 8 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday) at the London Junior High gymnasium.

The Concert Band will play "Brass A Flame" by John Cacavas, "Chanson and Bourree," by Frank Erickson and "Chelsea Sweet" by Ronald Thielman.

TAXPAYERS FACE NEW PINCH

Lions Officers Elected for '67

New officers of the Wheeling Lions Club were recently elected. They are Gus Salmen, president, Dr. Ian Taylor, first vice-president; Earl Sauter, second vice-president, Charles Lee, third vice-president; Joe Behm, secretary; Ernie Stavros, treasurer, Bill Warr, Lion Tamer; and Ron Potter, Tail Twister.

The annual dinner and installation of officers will be held Saturday, June 10 at the Patio Restaurant.

Rate Increase On 1966 Bills

Tax rates in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove will be 53 and 42 cents higher than last year. Real estate tax bills will be mailed shortly.

First payment is due July 1.

Most Buffalo Grove property owners will be levied $6.30 per $100 assessed valuation as compared to $5.88 last year.

The bulk of Wheeling property owners will be levied $6.62 per $100 assessed valuation, up from $6.09 last year.

For residents of old Wheeling (in the vicinity of Walt Whitman School) not in Wheeling Rural Fire District, tax rates will be about 11 cents less, or $6.51 per $100 assessed valuation. (These residents do not pay a specific fire tax.)

MAJOR INCREASE in taxes was in the educational package. Rates went up 17 cents for Wheeling-Buffalo Grove School District 21 and 10 cents for High School District 214. The tax rate for Harper Junior College took a leap from 9 cents to 22 cents.

Sections of Buffalo Grove (the old part of town within Cook County) do not pay taxes for the Metropolitan Sanitary District. Their rates will be about 27 cents lower, or $6.02 per $100 assessed valuation.

Wheeling and Buffalo Grove residents, however, do pay taxes to the same library and fire districts. But park facilities in Buffalo Grove are provided through the village tax rather than a separate park district tax as in Wheeling.

Wheeling's park district tax decreased slightly from 20.6 cents last year to 19.8 this year.

The total tax for the elementary school district is $2.82 per $100 assessed valuation. It was $2.65 last year and $2.55 the year before.

Total high school tax is $1.9 per $100 assessed valuation. Last year it was $1.81 and the year before, $1.72.

The total tax for the junior college is 22 cents, up from nine cents last year.

The next highest increase was in Wheeling's village tax rate. It soared from 32 cents last year to 43 cents this year.

ANOTHER INCREASE was in the Cook County Forest Preserve District. Last year the rate was 5.8 cents. This year it is six cents.

Five areas of taxes paid by Buffalo Grove and Wheeling residents made a slight decline.

The road and bridge tax rate fell from 10.6 to ten cents per $100 assessed valuation. The Northwest Mosquito Abatement District tax dropped from 2.4 cents to 2.2 cents. The Suburban T.B. Sanitarium District tax fell by one cent, from 4.6 to 3.6.

Another decrease was made in the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago. The rate dropped from 30.2 cents last year to 29.8 cents this year.

The Sanitary District Bond "A" decreased from one cent to .8 cents while the "No Bond" district rate remained steady at 28.4 cents.

This year's tax bill is for 1966. The 1967 tax bill will come out this time next year.

Women To Fete Local Officials

The Wheeling Junior Women's Club will host a reception for new and old public officials Monday following the village board meeting.

Honored at the reception will be incoming and outgoing members of the village board, school board and park district.

Wheeling Taxes Lead Township

Wheeling's real estate taxes took a higher leap this year than any other municipality in the township.

Wheeling's total tax rate is $6.62 per $100 assessed valuation — up nearly nine per cent over last year's rate of $6.09.

Greatest reasons for the jump were increases in the village and school tax rates.

The village is levying 43 cents for village services this year. Last year it asked for only 32 cents.

The total school package—including high school, elementary, and junior college districts — jumped by 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Tax rates in the Mount Prospect section of the River Trails Park district took an 8 per cent jump. Another 8 per cent tax rate leap occurred in the section of Arlington Heights located in the Palatine Rural Fire district.

State Council Hosts Wheeling Officers

Thad Mikols, next year's Student Council president at Wheeling High School, and Jay Newman, this year's treasurer, represented Wheeling at the Student Council State Convention which began yesterday and will run through Saturday at the Sherman Hotel, Chicago. More than 300 Illinois schools were represented. The convention elects officers for the State Student Council. This council, among other things, directs the activities of all student councils in the state. Each school was allowed one vote in the elections for officers. Fritz Hudson, Student Council president, said he received more than just ideas. "It really fires you up. You come back wanting to do great things."

Receive Badges

Wheeling Boy Scout Troop 147 held a court of honor on April 26 at the Jack London Junior High School.

The following boys received awards: Tenderfoot — Ray Jennings, Fred Barrett.

First Class — Dave Berry, Star — Joe Bucalo, Charles Scheidt.

One year pins were awarded to Joe Bucalo and John Gerger.

Wheeling Juniors Named Winners in State Contest

Wheeling Junior Woman's Club has just been informed that it has received one of the top three awards in the state of Illinois for its entry in the GFWC-Shell Oil Co. Education Promotion contest.

The awards will be presented at the annual convention of the IFWC at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, May 9, in Convention Hall of the Sherman House. First place award is $500; second, $300, and third, $200.

The Wheeling club's entry was the Scholarship Foundation and the Community Variety Show. Should the club win first place, it will then be entered in the national contest.

Present to receive the award May 9 will be Mrs. John Koeppen, 284 Cindy, Wheeling, president of the club.

Criminal Offenses Up 48% in 4-Month Period

The number of major criminal offenses in Wheeling took a sharp rise in April, according to Police Chief M. O. Horcher's monthly report.

In April, police recorded 40 complaints in the major crime category — twice as many as in April, 1966. A breakdown shows four burglaries, six grand larcenies, 28 petit larcenies (under $50) and two auto thefts.

So far this year, police have registered 96 complaints in this category, a 48 per cent jump from the same four-month period last year.

THE NUMBER of minor crimes reported dropped in April.

Police registered only 32 complaints as compared with 70 during the same month last year. Minor crimes include disorderly conduct, drunkenness, weapons, and sex offenses.

Though fewer traffic accidents were reported in April, they have involved more injuries and deaths.

Police registered 16 accidents last month as compared with 27 in April, 1966.

Two persons were killed and eight injured in the 16 accidents.

During the first four months of this year, police have reported 84 auto accidents, a decrease from last year's total of 87 for the same period.

THE NUMBER of juvenile complaints increased slightly from 44 last April to 54 this April.

Greatest juvenile activity was in the larceny category where eight incidents were reported.

Construct Overpass At Dundee

The long-awaited pedestrian overpass on Dundee Road is now under construction.

Approved by the Cook County Highway Department, the crosswalk will cost $65,641 and is expected to be completed late this summer.

The 116-foot-long overpass will serve children crossing heavily-traveled Dundee Road between Jack London Junior High and Eugene Field Schools.

A CHAIN link fence on both sides of the seven-foot wide walkway will prevent pedestrians from throwing trash onto the highway.

Costs of the overpass will be paid for by motor fuel tax (MFT) money from county funds.

Skil Plans New Plant in Wheeling

BY JOHN McDONNELL

Skil corporation yesterday announced that it will build a new manufacturing plant in Wheeling this summer and will introduce several new lines of power tools.

The 115,000-square-foot Wheeling plant will be used to build large-volume consumer tools such as drills, saws, and jigsaws. It will be completed in the summer of 1968.

New Tool Line

Skil's new power tools, which will be unveiled to the public later this year, include a hedge trimmer, rotary lawn edger, and a variety of plastic-housed power tools that eliminate the potential of electric shock.

John W. Sullivan, president, told the annual stockholders meeting that Skil will introduce a wider variety of new tools in 1968 and an even larger group of new products in 1969.

Stockholders did not ask about Skil's sales and earnings in 1967, but after the meeting Sullivan told a reporter that sales will be up 10 to 15 per cent—less than had been expected—and profits will rise only slightly.

Sullivan said the company's wholesale customers have been working off their inventories rather than placing new orders but he expects this trend to end soon.

2d Quarter "Good"

As reported earlier, Skil's first quarter sales were up 7 per cent but profits declined. Sullivan said the second quarter will be "pretty good" even tho production was hurt by the truck strike-lockout.

The company's long range plans, he disclosed, include ventures in two areas not now covered: England and Japan.

Stockholders elected a new director: Thomas P. Ward, vice president of international operations. Ward, who has been with Skil since 1962, replaces Paul J. Kennedy, a veteran Skil director.

Wheeling Studies Hiring Manager Thru Ordinance

Village trustees in Wheeling will consider an ordinance at their June 5 meeting which would allow them to hire a village manager. The decision to place the proposal on the agenda was made at a recent public meeting attended by trustees and Wheeling residents.

Among the reasons cited for the action were the growing population of Wheeling, the increased number of services provided, and the fact that all surrounding villages have adopted the idea.

In a referendum July 20, 1965, voters rejected a proposal to hire a village manager. A minimum period of two years must elapse before the question again may be submitted in a referendum. A manager may be hired without voter approval however, by enacting an ordinance allowing the move.

Hold 2d Referendum

The ordinance will contain a clause providing for a referendum in April, 1970.

Trustees feel the ordinance will allow them "to show the people how a manager can save taxpayers money and provide better services, and then go to the people in a referendum with positive accomplishments," said Mrs. Lorraine Lark, assistant village clerk.

Tells Present System

Village business now is administered by a clerk-collector who handles collections, purchasing, and requisitions. Under the ordinance to be proposed the manager will be given jurisdiction over the superintendent of public works, the police chief, and the village treasurer.

If the ordinance is approved, the village of Wheeling will advertise for a person to fill the office, altho an outside firm will do the interviewing and make a recommendation to the trustees. If the post is created, Wheeling should have a village manager before the end of the year, said Mrs. Lark.

SIMPLICITY AND NEATNESS are the winning features of the Gordon Schloatman residence, 439 Crescent Drive, chosen the first "Home of the Week" by members of the Wheeling Beautification Committee. The committee selected the home because of its individual look, reflected by a front patio set off by a wagon wheel. "The taste in landscaping is above par," commented Charles Mihalek, chairman of the group. All "Homes of the Week" will be entered in the "Mr. and Mrs. Home Beauty Contest" held during Family Fair in September. The contest was set up to urge Wheeling residents to clean up and beautify their town.

Village Trustees Sworn Into Office

New Wheeling trustees were sworn in Monday night in a quiet and brief ceremony.

One by one, each of the four nearly-elected trustees took their oath of office, administered by Village Clerk Evelyn R. Diens.

Incumbents Ira Bird and Pete Egan returned to their regular seats on the board. New trustees, Dan Owen and Harry Tyler, replaced Richard Frederick and Frank Wojek on the board platform.

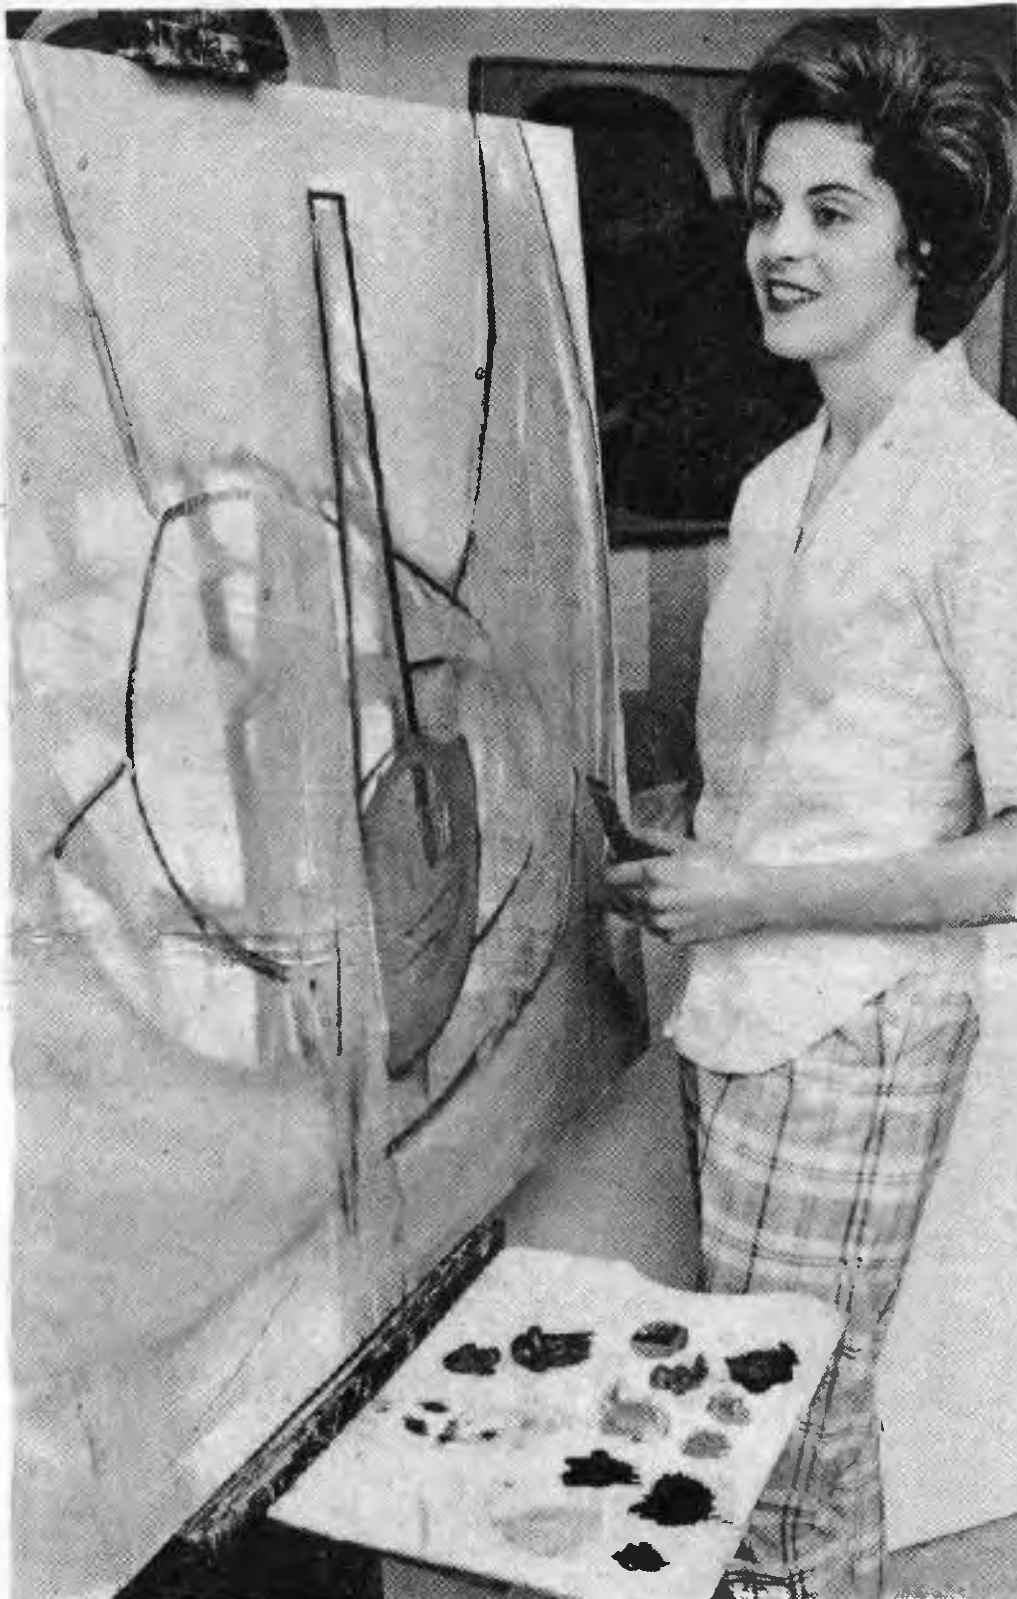

VILLAGE PRES. Ted Scanlon predicted that the next four years with the new trustees should be fruitful.

"With their help, the Village of Wheeling can become an all-American city," he said.

Scanlon presented outgoing Trustee Frederick with a plaque. Scanlon praised Frederick's work on the board during the last four years, saying he had served the village "conscientiously."

Wojek was unable to attend the meeting because of an injury.

Following the board meeting, the Wheeling Junior Women's Club held a reception for all outgoing and new members of the village board, park district, and school board.

TORCH Representative Named

Mrs. Norma Magneson was appointed to the steering committee of Project TORCH (The Organization Representing Community Hope) Thursday as a representative of Wheeling-Buffalo Grove District 21's Board of Education.

Her appointment is one of the first aimed at enlarging the present 14-member steering committee.

Committee chairman, Richard Stanowski, hopes to increase the membership for a more representative voice of the community.

Additional representatives are needed from the local PTAs, industry, the park district, police department, chamber of commerce, athletic associations and ministerial groups, Stanowski said.

TORCH, which currently is seeking federal funds, has been set up to coordinate community bodies and activities under an "umbrella" of public school agencies.

Current steering committee members represent public and parochial schools, village boards and religious and social groups.

BEAUTIFICATION GROUP OUTLINES FIRST GOALS

Festival Day Band Picked

The championship Wheeling High School Band has accepted another choice invitation—this time from the University of Michigan.

The nationally-known band will be one of four guest bands playing at Michigan's Band Day Festivities—the largest band day in the country.

Some 200 bandmen will leave for Ann Arbor, Mich. Friday, Sept. 22 for the event. Stopping at Saline, Mich. the group will present a half-time show at the Saline High School football game.

SATURDAY, Sept. 23. Wheeling bandmen will travel on to Ann Arbor where it will be one of 200 bands, represented by 14,000 band members, participating in festivities.

Wheeling's show during the exhibition-clinic following the afternoon football game will be "A Tribute to Walt Disney."

According to Director Dean DePoy, the show is a new one with music and formations presently being prepared.

Sept. 23, the band again will stop at Saline to play at a dance-mixer. The group will return to Wheeling by bus Sunday evening.

Some 70 bands compete for the championship.

During the summer, the Wheeling band is representing Northern Illinois (Dist. 1F) at the July 5 Lions International Parade in Chicago.

Then on July 14, Wheeling bandmen travel to the Minneapolis Aquatennial where it will defend its two-year championship.

IF WHEELING wins, it will retire from competition with a three-year trophy. Last summer, the band captured the Grand Championship—the first time an Illinois band won the prize in 27 years. The year before the band also won a top honor.

'Sound Out' Board For Joint Group On Youth Problems

The Wheeling Youth Commission faces some rough-going in the next few months.

Commission chairman Mary Christie and Rev. E. Harding Monday appeared before the Wheeling Village Board to "sound out" trustees on the idea of a joint Buffalo Grove-Wheeling Youth Commission.

Rev. Harding told trustees the group received a favorable reaction from Buffalo Grove but that the village could not take any budgetary action until next year.

THE YOUTH Commission, founded last year, is asking for a $34,000 budget. It had hoped for $17,000 from each village.

Presently the commission works on a volunteer basis with juveniles referred by police. But commission members have found they do not have the technical knowledge needed to deal with the youth's problems.

Funds are needed to hire personnel qualified to provide services to the youth.

Trustee Harry Tyler questioned the possible duplication of TORCH, which recently received $325,000 in government aid for a three-year period.

"Some aspirations and ambitions of the commission will be realized by TORCH," Tyler said. "Has any effort been made to correlate your efforts?"

REV. HARDING answered, "TORCH has a larger area to serve than we do. The two staffs will duplicate somewhat but the commission has a more specific job to do."

The commission's sole purpose is in helping juveniles, he pointed out.

Trustees made no decision about providing the requested funds in the village budget.

Gill To Talk On TORCH

Project TORCH, a community-wide effort for cooperation, will be explained tonight (Wednesday) by one of its initiators, School Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth F. Gill.

The meeting begins at 8 p.m. at the Wheeling High School faculty lounge.

Gill's discussion will revolve primarily around the $325,000 received by TORCH from Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

With negotiations with state and federal officials almost completed, TORCH has been given the "go ahead" to begin hiring personnel.

ACCORDING to Gill, all that remains is specific negotiation over purchasing matters with the U. S. Contract and Purchasing Department.

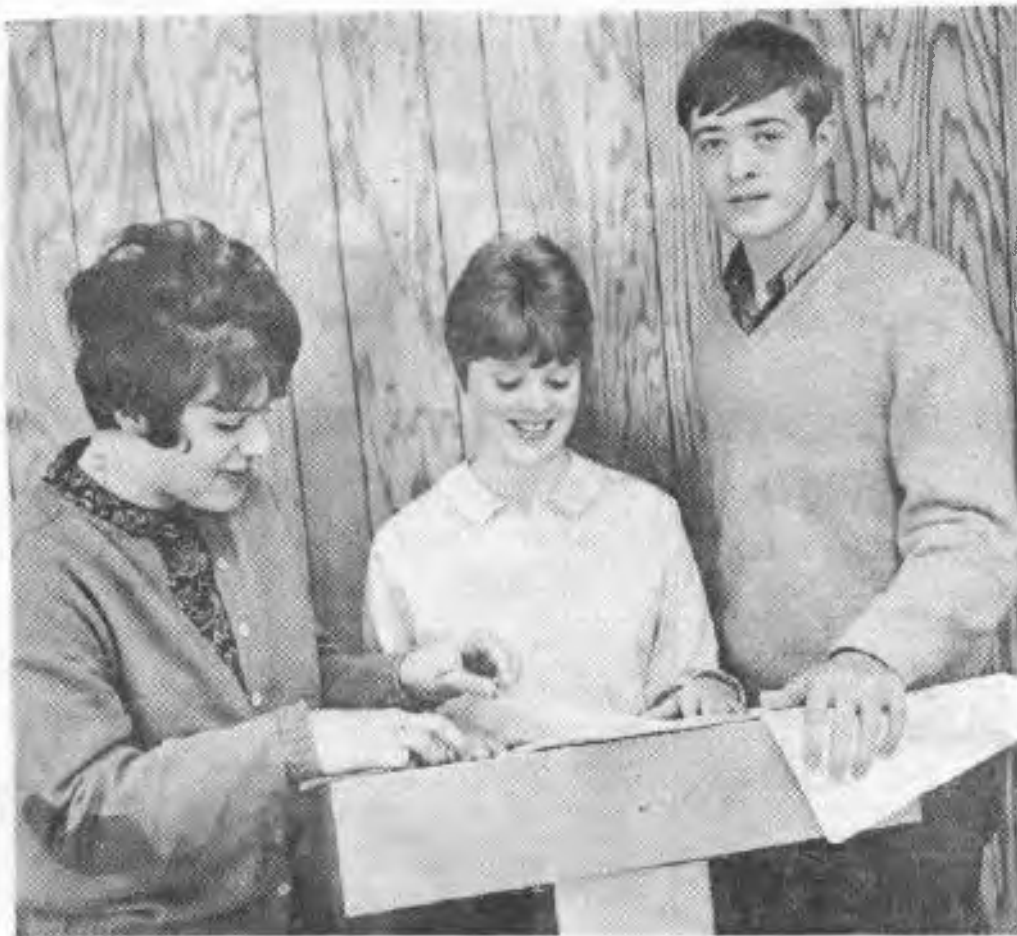

Organized last summer, the TORCH steering committee sought federal funds to get its organization off the ground.

The money tentatively received will be spread over a three year period.

The first year TORCH will get $150,000; the second year, $100,000; and the third year, $75,000. After that, it is hoped that community organizations would help finance aspects of the program.

Two at Wheeling Contest Winners

Jim Blanchfield and Carole Clark, students at Wheeling High School, have been named as national Hallmark art contest winners.

Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Blanchfield of 3343 Schoenbeck, Wheeling, while Carole is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Clark of 1516 Mark Drive, Mount Prospect.

Jim sent his application to Arlington Heights for competition at the state level. A month ago, he received word that he had won in the state competition. This entitled him to $100 and the opportunity to participate in the nationals.

Jim represented Illinois in the National Contest, where there was one entry from each state in addition to one from each U. S. possession. On May 6 he received the news that he had been awarded first place. Jim received a $1,000 scholarship to any art school in the country.

HE HAS chosen to attend the American Academy of Art in Chicago, after having completed a term in the service. The contest was sponsored by Hallmark Cards and the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs.

Jim worked on his pen and ink drawing for 65 hours. It is now on display in San Francisco at the Hilton Hotel.

Jim also entered another contest May 13. It was supposed to last for two and a half hours but Jim arrived late and was only able to sketch for 15 minutes. He received third prize of a half year tuition to the American Academy of Art in Chicago.

Carol entered an opaque water color in the Hallmark contest and won $100 for her efforts, which she will use for further schooling.

CAROLE'S work is now being exhibited in the New York Scholastic Magazine Show in New York. "I just can't believe it," were Carole's own words to the news.

"I am really proud of both students," stated John Sears, art teacher.

Band To Present Post-Game Clinic

The Wheeling High School Marching Band will present a post-game clinic performance at the University of Michigan vs. Duke University football game at Ann Arbor, Michigan, Sept. 23.

Each year the University of Michigan selects three outstanding high school bands from throughout the nation to present these clinic shows. Wheeling is the first high school band from Illinois to have been invited to the activities.

The honor brought to the W.H.S. band is especially significant for Dean DePoy, band director, who is a graduate of the University of Michigan.

The trip begins Friday, Sept. 22 and lasts through Sunday, Sept. 24. Leaving W.H.S. at 7 a.m., the band will arrive in Saline, Mich., at approximately 3 p.m. That evening the band will present the half-time show at the Saline High School football game.

THE FOLLOWING morning, the Marching Band will leave with the Saline band for Ann Arbor to participate in the Band Day activities there. Unsightly Road Signs Are Group's Target

The Wheeling Beautification Committee has taken up the crusade banner in ridding the village of useless and unsightly road signs.

Striking first in the center of the village, the committee is urging removal of excessive state highway signs along Dundee Road in front of the Wheeling Shopping Center.

In a letter to Harry Waldon, engineer for the highway department, the committee declared, "These signs are a hazard and only add to the confusion of drivers approaching the intersection of Dundee and Milwaukee. Since our committee is trying to eliminate all signs and billboards that are defacing, obsolete and traffic hazards, we wish you would give us your immediate attention and correct this situation."

THE LETTER was signed by committee chairman, Charles Mihalek.

The committee authorized Mihalek to send the letter at its initial, organizational meeting last week.

The committee plans to seek out and clean up other trouble spots in the village including littered highway rights-of-way, obsolete and illegal billboards, and abandoned gas stations.

Formed last week, the group hopes are for a more beautiful Wheeling. Persons interested in joining the committee are asked to contact Mihalek.

NO PARKING AT ANY TIME . . . Libertyville . . . Niles . . . speed zone ahead . . . no parking. Confusion reigns at this hazardous, overstated section of Dundee Road just west of Milwaukee Avenue. With an eye to eliminating the repetitious signs, the Wheeling Beautification Committee has sent a letter to the State Highway Department urging immediate correction of the existing situation.

$1 Million Motel Ready To Open; Pilots 'Dream'

With a backdoor to the world's busiest non-commercial airport, the Palwaukee Clayton House on South Milwaukee Avenue will open Wednesday, manager Ron Nelson announced this week.

Built at a cost of $1 million, the airport-motel is located at the end of Runway 24 at Palwaukee Airport.

Designed with the pilot in mind, the motel features a turnabout pad in the rear and closed circuit television in its pilot's club and lounge as well as its 100 motel units.

AFTER LANDING, small planes will be able to taxi up to the motel's runway entrance, discharge its passengers and park.

Televisions will broadcast a continuous special weather advisory report. Another closed circuit channel will pick up the main runway of the airport.

Nelson said the runway will be completed by this summer.

Elaborate dining and banquet facilities look over the airport. Called "Lord's Northwest, the red-carpeted dining room will have a seating capacity of 400. Plans for a swimming pool, tennis courts, and putting green are underway.

The motel is part of a chain of 13 Clayton House Motels throughout the midwest. The Palwaukee motel will be the third Clayton House in Illinois.

THE IDEA for an airport-based motel to serve pilots and plane owners came from one of the developers of Clayton Houses, Clayton L. Rautbord, president of a photo equipment firm in Evanston.

Rautbord, a businessman who depends primarily on air travel, owns a small jet. He calls his airport-motel a "pilot's dream."

WITH A VIEW overlooking Palwaukee Airport, the newly-constructed Clayton House will be oriented to the pilot and airplane owner. Cost of construction is $1 million. A plane will be able to taxi to the motel, discharge its passengers, and park. Manager Ron Nelson pauses a moment from his hectic schedule of final construction to take in the view. (Staff Photo)

No 'Good Neighbor' in Wheeling

Village 'Let Down' By Relations Body

Wheeling will have no organized discussions for "Project: Good Neighbor," a week-long mass education effort of the Leadership Council for Metropolitan Open Communities.

Though discussions were to be handled by the Wheeling Human Relations Commission, that group did not take on the task because of internal problems.

Elic Nekimken, commission chairman, told the Herald there was no time for the commission to organize any local activities. He also said the lack of members on the commission was a big problem.

"WE LET THE project and the community down," Nekimken said, "It's an unfortunate matter."

"Project: Good Neighbor" discussions have been set up in nearby communities, such as Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Elk Grove Village and Mount Prospect.

The focus during the week is on the need for equal housing opportunities in Chicago and its suburbs.

Brochures for the project were sent home by District 21 school children last week. The pamphlet lists television broadcasts dealing with equal housing opportunities slated throughout this week. A "Good Neighbor" declaration asking for individuals commitment on open housing accompanied the brochure.

NEKIMKEN SAID programs could still be set up in Wheeling "if people are interested in doing this."

The seven-member commission was plagued by three recent resignations—Mrs. Lorraine Lark, Kenneth F. Gill, and David J. Hanks. In addition, the remaining four commission terms expired in April.

Dedication of the $3.5-million addition to Northwest Community Hospital will be at 3 p.m. Saturday, June 17, not this coming Saturday as was indicated in Sunday's edition. Illinois' junior senator, Charles H. Percy, will be the dedication speaker.

Criminal Complaints On Rise Says Chief

The number of criminal complaints continued to rise during May, according to Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher's monthly report. Total number of complaints received by the department last month was 529 — a seven per cent increase over April's total of 498.

During the first five months of 1967, there have been more than 2,000 complaints registered.

IN A BREAKDOWN category, Wheeling police reported two aggravated assaults, five burglaries, 23 larcenies, and two auto thefts. In addition, the department registered 18 complaints of disorderly conduct, two weapons and three sex offenses, one drunkenness complaint and 25 other assaults.

Police also answered a total of 428 service calls during May.

The number of traffic complaints increased substantially from 195 in April to 235 in May.

There were 21 auto accidents in May compared with 16 in April. Of the 21, 18 accidents resulted in citations or arrests.

Start Recapturing History at Hall

Cobwebs and old shingles, an ancient ice box and worn wires were carted from the 60-year-old village hall on South Milwaukee Avenue.

Wheeling's Historical Society began a whirlwind clean up of the old building last weekend.

After renovation, the one-room building will house the historical society's museum.

SOCIETY members repaired the leaky roof with new shingles, pulled off old wires inside the building, and removed trash which has accumulated there over the last decade.

Society members plan to "wash down" the building when water lines are connected.

Although some artifacts from the old days have been collected, the society still is looking for more. Members are seeking items actually used in Wheeling during its 140-years of existence.

Persons wishing to donate items are urged to contact the historical society president, Merle Willis.

Promotes Industry

'Oohs, Aahs' Greet 20-Page Brochure

Wheeling's Industrial Commission Wednesday placed its hearty stamp of approval on a modern, 20-page brochure to promote industry in the village.

Designed by Don Duncan, a local, professional advertising man, the booklet boosts Wheeling as a "village in layout and pattern-of-living with Big City ideas and impetus in its civic and industrial growth."

The commission tentatively retained Duncan to do the brochure — pending approval of a $4,000 budget request from the Village Board to cover costs.

Commissioners hope to have 1,000 copies of the industrial brochure printed and ready for distribution by early September.

Brochures will be sent to industrial firms inquiring about locating in Wheeling.

WITH FREQUENT "oohs and aahs," commissioners lauded Duncan for his fast and successful work on the brochure.

A month ago commissioners asked Duncan to present a layout and costs estimates.

Wednesday he came to the meeting armed with examples of industrial booklets from other towns in addition to a preliminary plan for Wheeling.

He pointed out the "poorer" aspects of some brochures, citing unsightly fold-outs, unwieldy notebook types, voluminous and odd-shaped leaflets.

The professional ad man told commissioners he tried a modern approach in the Wheeling brochure.

The 8½-by-11-inch brochure will have three colors on all 16 inside pages.

ON THE COVER, a drawing of a doorway focuses on a group of men over a drawing board. "The doors open to you for your new plant or office," reads the cover title.

Duncan suggested using a wheel symbol for page numbers.

The brochure, filled with pictures, emphasizes Wheeling's good points — availability of water, fire and police services, proximity to hospitals, and business and financing.

Duncan, in a moment of frankness, commented that a picture of the business area should not be used. "I don't think the main street of Wheeling would be so appealing," said Duncan.

A map will designate industrial sites available.

Commissioners rejected the idea of selling pages as ads to specific industrialists now located in the village.

INSTEAD, ALL available sites and existing firms will be included in the "core" of the booklet.

Duncan estimated that 1,000 copies of the leaflet would cost about $3,000 to photograph, layout, edit, and print.

He is to prepare a sample of the finished brochure to commissioners at the next meeting, July 12.

IT'LL BE CAR WASH DAY Saturday for Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High eighth graders at the Citgo Service Station, Hintz and Elmhurst roads in Wheeling. Cost of the wash is $1.25. Proceeds will go to purchasing a class gift—a sign for Holmes school. Getting into the swing of scrubbing and polishing are from left, Wally Wilson, Lee Leiding, Marylou Koeppen and Chuck Altmaier. Hours are 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Whitman Concerts Are Today

The Walt Whitman school chorus is holding two outdoor concerts today.

Directed by Miss Susan Ent, the chorus will present a concert for the student body at 10 a.m. At 1:30 p.m. the group will sing to parents and visitors.

Both concerts will take place on the school playground.

Village Appointments Are OK'd by Board of Trustees

Appointments of 33 men and women to village boards and commissions were confirmed Monday by the Board of Trustees.

Only the appointment of Frank Wojek, a former trustee now seeking a post on the Zoning Board of Appeals was delayed. Wojek was to replace Al Miller on that board.

Trustee Harry Tyler explained that he felt Miller had worked well on the zoning board. Tyler said he thought Miller should be reappointed.

Trustees delayed their action on the vacancy.

IN THE AREA of dual appointment, the village board agreed to revise a 1965 resolution allowing an appointee to serve on only one village body.

Suggested by Trustee Ira Bird, the change would legally allow Douglas Cargill to continue his membership on the Plan Commission, Zoning Board of Appeals, and Police Pension.

Bird explained, "When the resolution passed, it was my intention to incorporate a grandfather clause, but apparently that was not done." The clause would have allowed those serving on two or more commissions in 1965 to continue to do so. Cargill was one of these.

Trustees plan to amend the resolution Monday.

Human Relations Commission: Rev. George Ekstrom, Mrs. Nora Couris, Rev. Ray Yadron, Gertrude Trunda, and Elic Nekimken. Plan Commission: Joseph Rusek, Leon Bouvier, and Douglas Cargill.

Zoning Board of Appeals: Gayle Roberts. Public Relations

Commission: Mrs. Lillian Stiller, Mrs. Sheila Schultz and James Tate. Civil Defense: Robert Buerger, director, Wayne Gilbert and Sanfred Tyser, assistant directors.

YOUTH Commission: Marilyn Behar, Ed Welflin, Margaret Orlovski and Gary Tjarks. Industrial Commission: Wilbert Bartelt, Ray Roach, John Young, Richard Dobrien, and Herbert Lortz.

Electrical Commission: Joseph Hill, Elmer Lemke and Raymond Kulpins. Police and Fire Commission: William Hart.

Police Pension Board: Douglas Cargill and Walter Diens. Mrs. Jane Turbell was re-

School To Buy Delivery Truck

District 21's school board has okayed the purchase of a new Dodge delivery van at a cost of $2,013.

The new vehicle will be purchased from Arlington Park Dodge, the lowest of three area dealers bidding for the sale.

The van will be used daily in shuttling mail and materials between the districts schools.

Handicapped Students Pose School Problem

District 21 school officials are deeply concerned about the future educational fate of hundreds of area handicapped children.

Supt. Kenneth F. Gill told board members Thursday that the district will be hard-pressed to find space and have teachers available for children in the district by 1969. That's the date, according to the new state law, when all districts must have workable programs for all children under their jurisdiction.

GILL SAID that a letter he sent to State Supt. Ray Page revealing that the district could not possibly meet the state demands was promptly answered with the admonishment, "You can do it."

Presently the district is part of a large special education district covering the entire 214 and 211 high school area and all their feeder schools.

Area handicapped children who can be trained have either attended special classes or been sent to private schools for special education.

However the wording of the new law is interpreted to mean that each district must now provide for the education of these children.

"Our special education district would need a hundred more classes and dozens of teachers to comply by 1969," Gill said.

HE WARNED that the district could possibly lose its state aid benefits if they failed to comply and the state wanted to get tough.

"The best we can do now is plan to fit as many of them in where we can," Gill said. "We need more space. There is some talk of building an area-shared facility. But this is not yet legal. And even with that, I doubt that we could get the number of teachers we need."

Gill termed the district's problem as simply one of being "caught in a crazy legal interpretation."

He said that the area districts would continue to plan for some sort of a cooperative effort to help share the load. "If we don't come up with the right answer there are going to be some handicapped children who just won't be educated and that's our real concern," said Gill.

Club Sees Plant

Luncheon at the Phil Johnson restaurant on Waukegan Road began a busy day for the Wheeling Over 50 Club last Thursday.

Following the luncheon, club members went on for a bus tour of the Sara Lee Baking Plant, also on Waukegan Road.

The Club evening business meeting, held that night, included a talk by monologist Rev. Herbert Duenow, who reviewed William Manchester's book "Death of a President."

All residents of Wheeling Township, 50 years of age or over, are eligible for membership in the club.

Area Devastated By Record Rain

by NANCY BENCO
News Editor

Devastating floods struck the Wheeling and Buffalo Grove areas last Saturday when four inches of rain fell during a period of five hours.

In Buffalo Grove flood waters subsided and all roads were passable by midnight Saturday, according to Police Chief Harold Smith.

Raupp Bridge, however, has been condemned to all vehicular traffic. At the height of the storm about 1 foot of water covered the old bridge. The plank bridge was to be demolished later this month and replaced by another structure.

PUMPS AT the Buffalo Utility Company reportedly failed during the storm but service was restored early Sunday morning.

In Wheeling, hundreds of homes had flooded basements. Many residents lost home furnishings and carpeting during the deluge.

Some 20 residents came to the Wheeling Village Board meeting Monday with pleas for help and demands for an immediate solution of the recurring flooding.

Mrs. Robert McEstes, 100 Highland Ave., acted as spokesman for residents in the Sunrise Drive, Highland Avenue, Wolf Road area.

There, she said, residents had 8.5 feet of muddy and oily water in their homes and basements.

"Until this spring, we've never had water so high," she charged, and blamed construction of Heritage Park and Oliver Wendell Holmes School as part of the problem.

"Our homes filled up in one hour," she said. "My home received three feet of water in 10 minutes." Waves of water also washed into the homes when cars ploughed through the floods on Wolf Road.

Damage Pickup

Some help is at hand for flooded-out homeowners in Wheeling.

The Wheeling Disposal Company urges residents to contact its office at 537-1957 for pickup of damaged home furnishings. The cost will be incurred by the Village of Wheeling.

Wheeling Trustee Ira Bird offered to inform residents about methods of handling casualty losses on federal income taxes. Residents may call him at 537-2609.

The Village Board Monday initiated a fund-raising drive to help those who suffered severe losses in Saturday's flood. The board plans to contact Community Council to organize the drive.

MRS. McESTES' home was hit with the heaviest flooding. She said her living room floor was warped and the building foundations weakened.

"I have six inches of mud and oil slick in my kitchen and living room," she said, almost in tears.

"And none of our homes are insured," she added, "We've lost everything." Most of the homes in the Sunrise Drive area were damaged by floods in early March.

Village trustees began "emergency" measures to investigate the complaints but warned that these would only be temporary solutions.

Trustee Ira Bird directed village engineer Thomas Moody to immediately survey the park and school sites for flood plain violations.

According to the flood plain regulation, the sites must retain as much water as they did before the buildings were constructed.

MOODY ALSO directed to check Highland Avenue for a culvert which apparently was removed. Mrs. McEstes said that during the recent street paving program, the culvert was removed.

A resident of the Dunhurst area, Mrs. Edward Stein, 289 E. Wayne Place, added her complaints to the others.

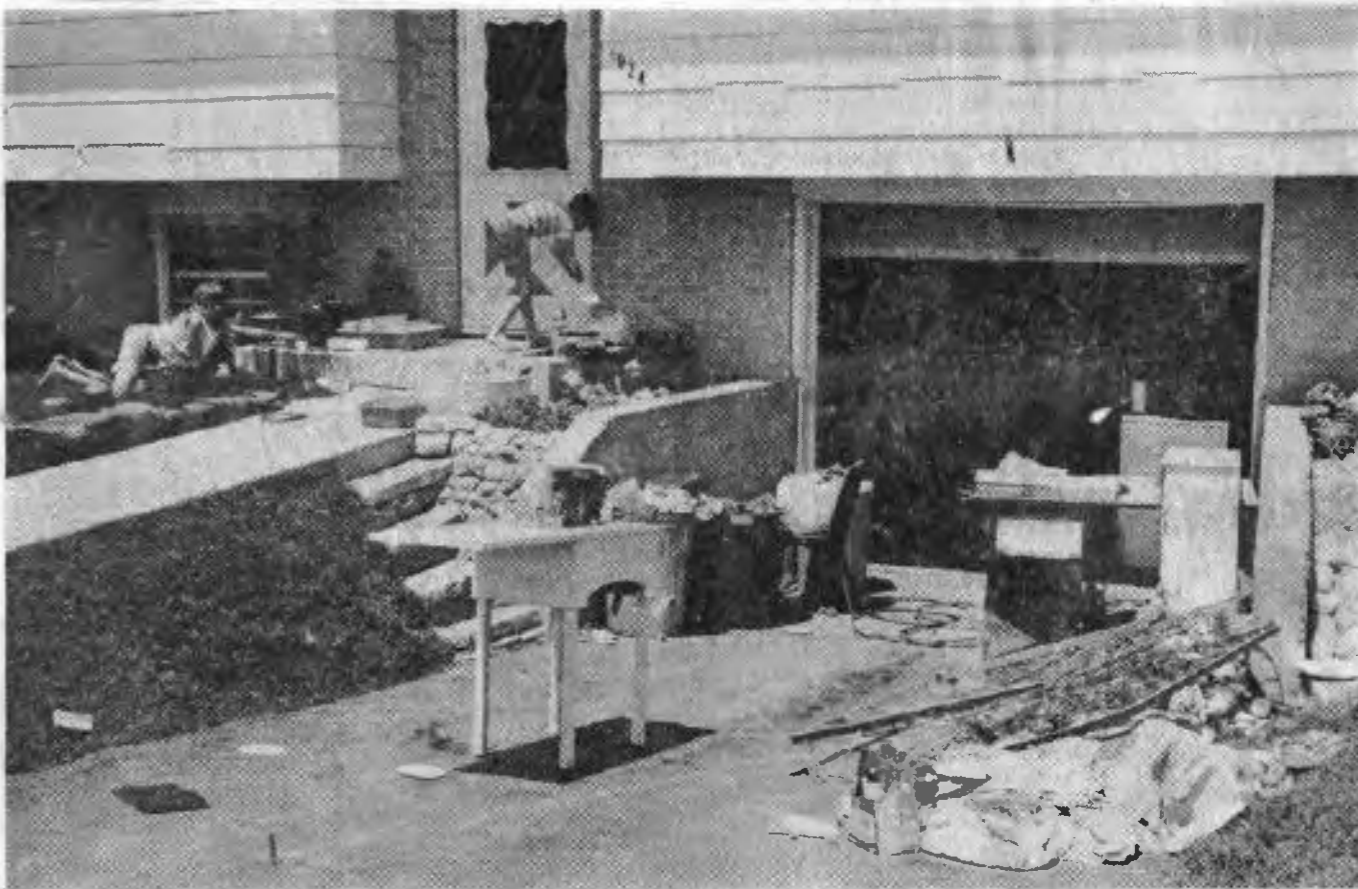

She blamed the building of Dunhurst Shopping Center as a major factor in flooding.

"The problem has existed for 11 years, since Dunhurst was built," she told the board. "I've complained and complained — you've seen the flooding — but this doesn't solve anything."

Trustee Bird said, "Things were done in 1956 which should not have been done. The cause of this flooding is that the village was built in error."

He said that new ordinances and regulations have been enacted since then but "not only do we have to solve our own poor sewer system but those of others dumping upstream."

MRS. STEIN also informed the board that raw sewage bubbled up from a manhole on Wayne Place during the flood. "It happens during every storm," she said, and added that calls to the Public Works Department brought no help.

"EVERYTIME IT RAINS, we say a prayer and just watch our homes flood." These were the tired words of Mrs. Alf Wilson, 1024 Anthony Road, whose home was just one of dozens filled with four feet of water and raw sewage during Saturday's flash storm. She estimated her damage in the thousands of dollars. Residents were still cleaning out Trustees, surprised to hear of this, ordered Supt. of Public Works Angelo Ventrella to investigate the situation and report to the board next Monday.

Village Pres. Ted Scanlon Monday praised the efforts of civil defense crews, firemen, police, trustees and other volunteers during the "bail out" period Saturday and Sunday.

OTHER AREAS reported severely flooded were Anthony Road, west of Husky Park retention basin, and Meadowbrook West Subdivision. Residents along Valley Stream Drive in Hollywood Ridge subdivision received heavy flood waters — the first time in the history of the Tuesday morning. Though they have petitioned the village for larger storm sewers, Anthony Road residents have received no affirmative response. The area collects water run-off from Cambridge subdivision and farm land to the west. Also water backs up from Husky Park retention basin to the north into Anthony Road homes. (Staff Photo)

Clerk Tells Collections

More than $645,000 in cash collections was handled by Wheeling Village Clerk Mrs. Evelyn Diens during the fiscal year, May 1966 to April 1967.

Her annual report was submitted Monday to the Board of Trustees.

The money includes all funds collected from special assessments and taxes not paid directly to the village treasurer.

area. There water flowed over the banks of Buffalo Creek to the north and flooded adjacent homes and streets.

Though most of the water receded during the weekend, areas throughout the village still were under water Monday.

Low lying land in the Dun-dee — Elmhurst Road areas had several inches of water on the surface. Farmlands along Hintz and Wolf Roads remained under water early this week.

CHRIS HODGE, SWIMMING INSTRUCTOR at the Wheeling community pool, offers advice to youngsters Monday, the pool's opening day. For the mothers waiting behind the fence, this is the first of many days this summer they will occupy the same chairs, watching their children develop swimming skills. (Staff Photos)

Voice of Your Neighborhood

ASKS FLOOD RELIEF

I am dissatisfied with the action taken by our village board concerning our flood problems. It seems too little and too late.

Keeping in mind that we flood under normal rain conditions, I won't argue with the last catastrophe which supposedly only happens once in a hundred years.

Our problem also goes beyond our village, and from my observations, I must say that the Des Plaines river is obsolete, and I will make this statement "that we now have an emergency situation" along the entire northeast area.

I know there are surveys being made and engineers are aware of the problem, but I think now we must bring it to the attention of our legislators and the governor for immediate action.

There are several steps that can be taken to immediately give flood relief to those unhappy taxpayers, such as retention basins every five miles along the Des Plaines river; 20 feet of silt has accumulated thru the years which can be dredged and enlarge the holding capacity of the river; and a dam can be built to control the flow of water.

How to get this done is another matter, but I have a few suggestions along this line also.

Labor, equipment, and money can be diverted from certain road projects, which can wait for another six months. Certain other facilities can be delayed; such as, municipal buildings and other structures.

I feel so strong that this is an emergency to say that all projects be delayed to remove the flood relief of countless of thousands whose fears and anxiety can be relieved and save millions of dollars to the taxpayers who cannot afford this additional expense.

This time it was seven feet of water in the homes, and to those of you who were fortunate not to flood, next time, it can completely engulf the area.

A STately OLD BUILDING houses most of the residents of the Addolorata Villa, a home for the aged, north of Wheeling. A new addition (on the

Addolorata Villa

Rehabilitation Is Goal

by NANCY BENCO
News Editor

Rehabilitation.

That, in one word, is the daily endeavor of Wheeling's Addolorata Villa, Our Lady's Home for the Aged, operated by the Servite Sisters.

Celebrating its 25th anniversary this year, the Villa will hold an open house Sunday from 2 to 4:30 p.m. The Villa is located on McHenry Road west of Elmhurst Road.

A new wing, housing a 16-room infirmary and 16 additional guest rooms, has been completed in time for the Silver Jubilee celebration.

THE NEW wing was added to the west side of the main building which is located in a pleasant setting of shade trees and well-kept lawns.

In addition to the main brick building, the Villa houses its guests in eight small cottages dotting the front lawn. Presently there are 80 guests — all women — at the Addolorata Villa.

According to administrator Sister Lucy, the home is opening its doors to men for the first time this year. Response from the women guests has varied, Sister Lucy said. Some are excited; others hesitant.

The rehabilitation program at the Villa centers around occupational therapy and physical therapy.

Occupational therapy consists of a well-rounded arts and crafts program. Guests can choose to sew clothes, make toys or construct dining room favors. The program, which began last September, is optional, though many take part in it.

SISTER LUCY pointed out that through this activity, the aged gain an interest in other people. Most of the crafts are donated to needy organizations.

For the physical therapy aspect, the Villa offers a whirlpool and bath. Most of the therapy, however, is informal — walking to meals and rambling through the grounds of the Villa.

Sister Lucy added that many residents of the Villa act as tour guides for visitors and formal receptions.

"We try to get them out of their rooms to meet the public," said Sister Lucy.

THE VILLA accepts persons 65 years of age with no preferences to race or creed. Most of the 80 residents come from the northwest suburban area.

Social activities include movies, card parties, membership in the Altar and Rosary Society. Local talent — school bands and scout groups — come to the Villa to entertain, said Sister Lucy.

In the infirmary three registered nurses and six licensed practical nurses are on duty. In addition eight nurses aides act as volunteers. Physicians are on call.

The Villa opened in the fall of 1942 on the 72-acre site north of Wheeling. In 1946, the Servite Sisters were given permission to begin a $250,000 fund-raising campaign to build the main hall. An "auxiliary" group of laywomen was organized to help.

THREE YEARS later, ground was broken to start the new building and dedication ceremonies were held in Nov. 1951.

The pillared building today houses 50 guest rooms, a chapel, dining facilities, physical and occupational therapy rooms, administrative offices and a recreation room.

Beauty Group Takes Area Slide Survey

The shutters were clicking in Wheeling last Saturday morning as the newly-formed Wheeling Beautification Committee began its camera survey of buildings and landscaping throughout the village.

Five committee members, including acting chairman Charles Mihalek and slide survey chairman Jack Bittner, started in the northeast portion of the village and spent four hours looking over the area through camera eyes.

"We only half-finished the job on Saturday," commented Mihalek. "We ran into too many problems."

He explained that by problems he meant that the village is too large to cover in one day. When the survey team began its work it had no idea of how much it could accomplish in a single outing.

"We mapped the village completely" Mihalek said, "and we want to make sure we get a proper representation. We don't want to show only the bad area, nor do we want to show too many of the good points."

THE SHUTTERBUGS will go out again tomorrow (Saturday) morning to continue their pictorial survey, but they are still in no hurry to finish the job at the risk of completeness.

When the committee feels it has an accurate study concluded, it plans to make slide presentations to civic organizations in the village. The hope is that these groups will offer their help in specific projects in a massive and continued beautification campaign.

"This past Saturday," Mihalek cited as an example, "we took pictures of some industry in the area—not all of it bad. We got some slides that look nice, showing how beautification can be done."

It is with examples like this that the committee hopes to enlist the aid of civic groups.

PROJECTS undertaken would of course have to be permissible under existing village ordinances. Thus the committee will also begin a review of ordinance requirements and, where the need arises, make suggestions to the board of trustees for new ordinances and the amending of existing ones.

The next regular meeting of the committee is set for July 5 at which time, according to Mihalek, "we hope to elect permanent officers and formulate our definite policies."

Five officials and 10 board members will be elected.

Mihalek is extremely pleased with the cooperation and support the committee's efforts are receiving.

"Never have I seen so much enthusiasm for a project," he said. "The support we're getting is very fine."

Mrs. Victor Haben

Nominate Wheeling Woman for Award

Mrs. Victor Haben, 550 Haben Lane, Wheeling, is a candidate for Volunteer of the Year in a campaign co-sponsored by the State Street Council and the Volunteer Bureau of the Welfare Council of Metropolitan Chicago.

Mrs. Haben was nominated by the Cook County Department of Public Health for her service to the Wheeling Child Health Conference, including recruitment of additional volunteers, procurement of supplies and preparation of rooms and conference equipment to receive patients.

Her activities have released public health nurses from non-nursing functions, enabling the professionals to devote time and service to the children and mothers attending the conference.

UNDER MRS. HABEN'S leadership, volunteers supply clerical help, weigh and measure children and assist mothers with more than one child in their care. In addition she has organized monthly meetings to discuss each conference and promote improvements in service.

As one of 121 candidates in two categories—Volunteer of the Year and Junior Volunteer of the year—Mrs. Haben's picture and a brief history of her service were displayed publicly Monday, March 13, in the north-south exhibition corridor of the City-County building at 121 N. LaSalle St., Chicago.

Next Monday, March 20, Volunteer Bureau judges will meet with five adult candidates for a final judging; the following week junior finalists will be interviewed; and Thursday, April 6, awards will be made at a luncheon in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House. The adult and junior Volunteers of the Year will be introduced by Mal Bellairs of Chicago radio station WBBM and a film presentation of the Volunteer's services will be shown.

Winners will receive a specially-designed gold pin and runners-up will receive similar pins in silver. (W)

Parks Donate $300 For Band Concerts

Wheeling's Park District will donate $300 toward the costs of holding three open-air High School band concerts this summer.

Supt. Ferdinand Arndt told commissioners that he had been in touch with the high school concerning the project. "I'm still very much a country boy at heart and get a kick out of band concerts. So I thought why not have three, one at each of the shopping centers and one at the park."

Arndt explained that the school could not pay the assistant conductor for rehearsing and holding the concerts, and so the park agreed to pick up $300 worth of the tab.

However, commissioners seemed sour at the idea of having the concerts at the shopping centers. "I think the park is the natural place," said Bernie Erlin. "The band could march through the village and end up at the park."

"Why, you would have to be a long distance runner to hear that kind of a concert," answered Arndt. (W)

Junior High To Present Science Fair

Students of Holmes Junior High School will present a science fair at the Heritage Park fieldhouse on Friday.

The fair, presented under the supervision of Mrs. Charlotte Mayer, will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Some 45 to 50 seventh and eighth grade students of Mrs. Maver and James Messer will exhibit science projects which deal with such subjects as geology, botany, chemistry, biology, dentistry, radiology, electronics and others.

Since many of the exhibits are not visually self-explanatory, each student involved will explain his project to the audience; this will require not only extensive knowledge of the subject, but also the qualities of a good public speaker.

The exhibits will be judged by Mrs. Jean Stavros, school nurse, and Dr. Ian Taylor, a local veterinarian. The nine best exhibits will then be sent to the district contest, to be held at Wheeling High School on April 1. (W)

New Officers Named For Over 50 Club

New officers have been elected for 1967-68 for the Over 50 Club in Wheeling.

John Markman will be president. Other officers include Mrs. Marta Hoglund, vice president, Mrs. Catherine Newton, recording secretary, Mrs. Myna L. Nielsen, corresponding secretary, and Jane M. Leichsenring, treasurer.

At its meeting on March 9, the club was entertained by a group of young people from the Jack London Junior High School. Their program included vocal and instrumental solo songs by the entire group.

The Over 50 Club enjoyed a trip to the beautiful Garden Show at the Chicago Amphitheater on March 13.

Membership in the Club is open to all citizens of Wheeling Township who are 50 years or more of age, a club member said. (W) an "Easter Egg Tree." Scott Frederick and Polly Pichette wear "Easter Bunny Ears" they made in class as they put the eggs on the tree. The tree was a joint effort of both the morning and afternoon classes of Mrs. Milford's class.

Policemen wipe their brow after rushing an expectant mother to the hospital.

A teenaged babysitter is forced to stay with four children for three days because the parents are stranded in Chicago.

A telephone supervisor trudges three miles through snow at least two feet high to get to work.

Business comes to a standstill.

And autos become obsolete as residents take to walking to stores to obtain medicine, food and other essentials.

THAT WAS THE story in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove last Friday, Saturday and Sunday as citizens dug out from an unofficial 25-inch snow, biggest in the history of the area.

The young mother, Mrs. Fred Piet, 1234 Sarosota, Wheeling, made it to Northwest Community Hospital in time—it's a girl.

Sgt. Eugene Wolfe and Patrolman Thomas Conte were called to the Sarosota Street address when Mrs. Piet realized that delivery time was close. They followed a snow plow part of the way into Hollywood Ridge subdivision, but were halted when the plow bogged down.

Then a huge tow truck came by and the officers asked the driver to make a path to the Piet home. He did, but the squad car still couldn't make it.

So the truck pulled the police car to the home. Mrs. Piet was placed in it, and the truck towed the car back to Dundee Road.

Then in a mad race with time the officers sped toward the hospital.

Here's the winding route they took: Dundee to Schoenbeck, to Trampers Trail to Jackson Drive, to Hintz to Arlington Heights Road and then to Central Road where the hospital is located.

IT TOOK AN hour, said Sgt. Wolfe. Officer Conte's comment: "Sgt. Wolfe sweat a little."

In Buffalo Grove a babysitter who had agreed to stay during the day Thursday, ended up staying Thursday night, Friday and until Saturday afternoon.

Susan Weiland, 18, made the three-day stand at the Charles Dreiling residence, 99 Bernard, when both the mother and father were stranded in Chicago at the bedside of an 8-year old daughter in a hospital there.

In the three-day period the marooned girl and her three charges ran out of milk. So neighborhood youngsters, led by Donald Schneck, went to the old general store in north Buffalo Grove for milk and other essentials.

IN WHEELING POLICE Chief M. O. Horcher reported that a telephone company supervisor trudged through the snow to get to work. "It was a three-mile walk and I wouldn't have done it," Horcher added.

Mrs. Phyllis Mack, a police radio operator and a resident of Northbrook, stranded in Wheeling, used a pool table in the fire department for a bed, and took her turn at manning the radio.

Officials say an estimated 75 autos were stalled in Wheeling alone, probably 20 or 30 on main thoroughfares such as

Stores at Standstill During Snowy Friday

The blinding snowstorm in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove brought business operations to a standstill last Friday.

The one exception was the National Tea grocery store in Dunhurst Shopping Center in Wheeling. It reportedly had booming sales all day long.

It was a different story in the Wheeling Shopping Center, on Dundee Road across the street from the village hall. Mark's Drugs did only a third as much business as it usually has.

MARK ARNOVE, owner, said business was back "pretty near to normal" on Saturday and Sunday.

The Jewel store in Wheeling was closed Friday, but did a good business Saturday. The Ben Franklin store in Dunhurst was closed both Friday and Saturday.

In the Ranch Mart center in Buffalo Grove, the drug store opened late. Arnove, owner of that store, said "We had to walk to the center from London Junior High School in Wheeling." The road was not cleared, he added.

The Jewel store in Buffalo Grove was open Friday. Most other businesses in the two villages were either not open or reportedly didn't do much business.

SATURDAY, of course there was a run on such items as milk and bread, though no extreme shortages were reported.

Merchants in general believed they lost some money because of the winter blast of snow, but not a great amount. (W

Battle Of the Streets

Officials in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling reported that "most" streets were clear by late Saturday or early Sunday after an estimated 23 inches of snow was dumped on the communities Thursday and Friday.

Wheeling Public Works Supt. Angelo D. Ventrella estimated it cost the taxpayers "in the neighborhood of $2,000" to remove the snow. There was no estimate from Buffalo Grove.

Ventrella and Buffalo Grove Pres. William Farrington said stalled autos stymied the clearing of the streets.

Public works department men started working Thursday night but quit at 11 p.m. because the wind was blowing drifts back across the roads as soon as they were cleared.

THEY STARTED AGAIN at 8 a.m. Friday and began to make a dent in the cleanup detail by 3 p.m., said Ventrella.

Both Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon and Ventrella complained that county and state roads, such as heavily traveled Dundee (Rt. 68), Milwaukee (Rt. 21), and Elmhurst (Rt. 83) were not cleared soon enough.

Ventrella thanked the residents for their understanding of the village problems during and after the blizzard.

He said the village had authorized him to look into the possibility of acquiring a larger piece of equipment to use if such an emergency arose again.

The new equipment would have a v-shaped plow to open up the huge drifts.

BESIDES THE AREAS where autos were stalled, the most difficult areas to clean were cul-de-sacs, Ventrella stated.

He pointed out that the village had to rent special equipment to clear or make a path around the cul-de-sacs.

HIGH WINDS whipped the snow up on the roof of this building in the Wheeling Industrial Park when the storm roared through last Friday. Drifts in the park were

15 to 20 feet in some areas. Some industries were forced to close down operations Friday because many employees failed to make it through the snow to work. (Staff Photo)

Dundee, Wolf, Milwaukee, and Hintz.

Horcher said, "Thank God there were no major catastrophes in the village."

He said he knew of no deaths that occurred during the storm or afterward when the community was paralyzed.

Only two fires were reported. One was a car fire in Wheeling, and a call to the Wildwood apartments on Dundee was recorded.

Village Presidents William Farrington of Buffalo Grove and Ted C. Scanlon of Wheeling both said residents reacted in the manner "you'd expect them to under such conditions."

Scanlon complimented villagers and said they came through it in fine spirits.

While the storm was raging, three squad cars stalled in the 10- to 20-foot drifts. Horcher reported that for awhile only one car was available.

Local Acts To Perform In 'Footlights' Show

"Footlights to the Future" will be on the boards tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday evenings in Wheeling High School auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock. The community variety show is sponsored by the Wheeling High School Community Scholarship Foundation.

More than 20 acts from local organizations have been rehearsing in preparation for the show, proceeds from which will help provide post-high school scholarship assistance to deserving Wheeling High School graduates.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Marjolu Olson, member of the Foundation's coordinating committee, "Footlights to the Future" has an exciting array of local talent.

A church choir, music ensembles, hula dancers, a piano duo, men's fashion show, Charleston revue, vocalists, comedy acts, a ballet and minstrel act will be included.

Directing the production is Louis Pintacurra, Wheeling resident and long-time theatrical personality. Working with him as stage manager and coordinator of the show is Mrs. Rae Swanson, a dance instructor with the Wheeling park program.

Master of ceremonies will be Glenn Oaks, vice president of the Scholarship Foundation and one of its original members.

ORGANIZATIONS contributing acts include Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, the Wheeling Junior Woman's Club Men's Auxiliary, Royal Neighbors of America, Prospect Heights Woman's Club, Wheeling Youth Commission, Knights of Columbus, Meadowbrook Women's Club, Cameo Players, River Trails Park District, Wheeling Athletic Association Auxiliary, Wheeling Village Clerk's office; Buffalo Grove Woman's Club and Joyce Kilmer PTA.

Other performing groups from Wheeling include the Public Relations Commission, Northwest Homeowners' Association, the Rotary Club, Park District and Junior Woman's Club.

Tickets to "Footlights to the Future" will be available at the door.

Memorial Site Is Decided

Wheeling's proposed veteran's monument will be located in the southwest section of Heritage Park, west of the parking lot and east of Buffalo Creek.

The park board unanimously agreed on the site after hearing Eugene Hicks of Wheeling's Public Relations Commission report that the nine-foot-four-inch monument had been ordered and should be in place for Memorial Day.

Hicks said that Heritage Park would provide an ideal termination point for parades and would be easily accessible for service.

He also said that the American Legion had agreed to furnish concrete benches once the monument was in place. The $3,600 cost of the memorial has been raised by donations from private organizations throughout the village.

Hicks will now meet with the park board's building and grounds committee to determine the exact location.

3-Acre Retention Basin Is Proposed at Huskey

Wheeling's Park Board has reviewed plans that would transform the Husky Park swamp into a lush three-acre lake, suitable for fishing and boating. At the same time it would serve as a million and a half gallon retention pond to help solve the area's flooding woes.

Supt. Ferdinand Arndt presented the study that called for digging a three-acre five-foot deep permanent retention basin. He said that the lake would be twice as deep and hold three million gallons after heavy rains.

This excess water could be then fed off through gravity to the drain tiles on Anthony Drive. A water control valve would regulate the run-off flow. "As we see, the problem has been boiled down to simply one of control," he said.

The park board has requested a meeting with the village board to discuss the plan, including the possibility of finally annexing the park into the village.

MONDAY WHEELING trustees tentatively agreed to meet with the park board at 8 p.m. next Tuesday at the Heritage Park Recreation Building. However, the village board indicated that it would like to invite other interested governmental units, such as the township, Buffalo Grove, and the Wheeling Drainage District to the meeting.

Both Trustees Pete Egan and Frank Wojek indicated that they were anxious to get the flooding problems at Husky solved.

Late last year Trustee John Koeppen Jr. vigorously started working with the parks to solve the flooding woes in the park area. The park board sought financial help in the project.

Monkeyshines Carry Variety Show

by DAVID J. HANKS
News Editor
One group monkeyed around and almost walked off with the Scholarship Foundation variety show last weekend at the first annual Wheeling High School the ladies of the Wheeling Village Clerks office literally brought down the house with their bit called "Monkeyshines."

Done to the tune of Aba Daba Honeymoon, the five women did a terrific adaption of monkeys singing and playing musical instruments. They didn't leave out much in the quick whirlwind performance, which lasted about three minutes, they even scratched like you see monkeys do in a zoo.

THERE WERE other acts which should be rated excellent. On the funny side, with a large cast, the Wheeling Athletic Association Auxiliary put on a delightful adaption of "Casey" or rather "Gracey at the Bat." The whole skit was a take-off on the famed Mudville scene, except Wheeling was playing a bitter foe—Buffalo Grove.

Gracey did a splendid job, and the rest of the cast was certainly not second rate.

One of the wildest shows was demonstrated by the Wheeling Junior Women's Club Men's Auxiliary. They put on a "ladies fashion show, entitled "Les Girls on Parade." Credit must be given to the husbands of the Junior's for "guts" and causing a lot of riotous laughter for the full house both nights.

Everything from the mini-skirt" to—would you believe the bikini, was displayed—and I do mean DISPLAYED.

And the River Trails Park

District pair of Gene DiBlasi and Betty Meyers get a nod their fine performance. They also sang several songs.

The first act of the evening, Our Redeemer Lutheran Church Choir, was tops on the program as a large singing group. Directed by Henry Elling they performed numbers from Oklahoma.

The Wheeling Public Relations Commission is to be commended for their adaption of "Our Town" or "We'd Rather Fight than Move." It too was a bushelful of laughs to the Wheeling dominated audience.

THE PLAYERS in the "Our Town" did a splendid and effective job of making a joke our of what is wrong with Wheeling. Villagers must have chuckled a little to see themselves being performed.

With turned up toes and turned down hose, the "Kilmer Kuties" from the Joyce Kilmer PTA in Buffalo Grove literally had the house rocking with their famed dance of the Roaring 20's, the Charleston.

The men in the audience probably got a thrill, and some frowns crossed the ladies faces in the audience when the women of the Northwest Homeowners Association of Wheeling did the hula. Entitled "Hawaiiin Sweethearts," the action was supposed to tell a story with the hands—but who was watching the hands.

Some sophistication was brought into the show by Royal Neighbors of America. Susan Plymale performed a ballet dance, and later the Charleston.

HAWAIIAN SWEETHEARTS—Some women from the Northwest Homeowners Association of Wheeling are serious about doing the hula at the "Footlights to the Future" variety show last weekend. The variety show had 20 acts and was the first fund raising effort by the Wheeling High School Scholarship Foundation. (Staff)

That unexpected holiday for youngsters in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove came to a halt yesterday (Wednesday) as classes started in both District 21 and at Wheeling High school.

The unofficial 25-inch blanket of snow caused the cancellation of a teachers institute in District 21 Friday and classes Monday. The institute was held Tuesday, while the students took a third day of vacation.

In the parochial schools, St. Marys in Buffalo Grove and St. Joseph the Worker in Wheeling, classes were called off Friday and Monday, but they resumed Tuesday.

Sister Antoinette, principal at St. Marys, said "there were few absences Tuesday." Only buses belonging to the school ran. The buses owned by Ritzenthaler, which the school pays to haul students did not run Tuesday but were to Wednesday, Sister Antoinette said.

At St. Joseph the Worker School, Sister Jean Marie, principal, reported classes were held Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. No buses ran, however.

Snow Gave Holiday To School Children

SUPT. KENNETH F. Gill says all pupils and teachers made it home safe, but late Thursday. There were no reports of persons stranded, he added.

The digout of the nine schools in District 21 was slow, said Gill, mainly because both trucks with plows broke down. The snow was so deep around all schools that the equipment owned by the district couldn't handle it.

In a quick check of some of the school buildings, drifts up to 10 feet or higher were evident.

Gill said he was working with the company who contracts to clean Buffalo Grove streets to clear schools in that community.

The Wheeling Park District assisted the schools by cleaning the areas around Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High and Walt Whitman Schools.

Gill said schools would get under way Wednesday and the expected buses to be in operation. One of the main problems which resulted from the storm was that sidewalks were not clear.

AND HE ADDED that children were forced to walk on the streets making it dangerous for the kids. In some areas the path in the street is not wide, he said.

He urged all residents to shovel the walks in front of their homes in both villages, making it less dangerous for children to walk to school.

The superintendent said he believed the district would have to acquire bigger equipment to handle such an emergency in the future.

Schlickman Bills Get Favorable House OKs

Three pieces of proposed legislation by State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights) received favorable response in action of the Illinois House of Representatives last week.

Schlickman's bill for eliminating the restriction on the frequency with which textbooks may be changed by public schools was passed by the House and now is in the State Senate.

Public school textbooks presently may not be changed more frequently than once every five years.

THE BILL, suggested by an official of High School District 214, is supported by the Illinois School Problems Commission and State Superintendent of Public Instruction Ray Page.

Committee approval was given to Schlickman bills for allowing Arlington Heights and other villages approaching 50,- 000 population to continue to elect three trustees every two years, rather than electing all six once every four years, and allowing electors in a Cook County township to disburse up to $10,000 of surplus funds for historical societies and museums.

Earlier, Schlickman's bill for giving municipalities the power to pay their Zoning Board of Appeals members was approved by committee action, and this week it will be called up for voting by the entire House.

In addition, his bill for paying the members of the 1965 House Re-apportionment Commission has passed the appropriations committee.

IN COMMITTEE this week, two more Schlickman bills will be heard. One would extend voting hours by one hour, to 7:00 p.m. The other would allow residents in a rural fire district to elect their trustees, now appointed by the court.

Awaiting committee action are Schlickman bills for the establishment of half-way houses for prison parolees, giving to municipalities the power to zone in the unincorporated mile, and one-half area surrounding them, allowing municipalities to control solicitors, improving Salt Creek, and for credit reform.

Wheeling—Most main roads well plowed and passable.
 Elmhurst—Five to six inches of new snow. Most main streets fairly clean.

Winnetka — Main roads open, but have snow on them. Thoroughfares improved over Wednesday's conditions.

Chief Horcher to Serve Committee On Car Thefts

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher has been chosen to serve on the International Association of Police Chiefs of Police auto theft committee.

William H. Morris, president of the IACP, said Horcher was chosen "because of his interest and activities in the field of auto theft investigation."

The committee is active and has made many worthwhile contributions to the over-all program of the association, said Morris.

Federal Aid Sought for Arts Program

District 21 has applied for $1,600 in federal funds to boost the planned fine arts program in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove.

According to Supt. Kenneth F. Gill the funds, if received, would be used to purchase additional visual aid material. He said the funds would be given on a matching basis, but added that district's share amounted to what would need to be spent on the program next year anyway.

The fine arts program will be offered to the seventh and eighth grade students under the direction of Marjorie Beu, district music coordinator. (V)

Over 50 Club Host to Two Other Clubs

The Over 50 Club of Wheeling held open house at the Heritage Park Field House last Thursday for the clubs from Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove.

A tour of the Sara Lee Kitchens is planned by the Wheeling Club for Jan. 26.

Meetings are held regularly at the Heritage Park Field House on the first and third Thursdays of each month from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on the second Thursday from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Rezoning Hearings

Public hearings on three rezoning requests are scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. tomorrow (Friday), by the Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals.

At 8:30 p.m. the zoners will hear a request to have a 154-foot wide strip of land which is part of the 1.9 acre site of the new Wheeling post office. The narrow strip of land was annexed to the village recently as R-1 residential, and must be reclassified to B-3, general business.

A plea to have about 55 acres of land at Wheeling and Palatine Roads rezoned from R-1, single family residence, to I-3, general industrial, is slated at 7 p.m.

Also on the zoners agenda, at 7:30 p.m. is a request to reclassify a seven-foot wide strip of land at Camp McDonald and Wolf Roads. A shopping center is being erected there. The small parcel was inadvertently left out when the shopping complex was rezoned.

Permanent Vets' Memorial Planned at Heritage Park

The erection of a permanent memorial to the veterans of Wheeling has been announced by the Public Relations Commission of Wheeling. It will be built on a site provided by the Wheeling Park District in the northwest section of the Heritage Park Building grounds.

The simple marble monument is 9'4" in height and will bear the inscription, "In grateful memory of the people of Wheeling who served in all wars."

"THOUGH its simplicity gives it a contemporary appearance, the design dates back to the memorials of the ancient Greeks to honor their warriors," explained Chairman Eugene Hicks.

The concept of establishing a suitable memorial in Wheeling was initiated by Hicks and will be executed with the cooperation of the local veterans organizations. It will be financed solely by contributions.

"We want this to be a community endeavor," said Hicks. "We hope that every citizen, organization and business will take part."

CONTRIBUTIONS will be handled by the Wheeling State Bank and should be addressed to Memorial Fund, Wheeling State Bank, Wheeling. Hicks, whose proposal was favorably received in recent appearances before the veterans organizations, will speak to any group interested in further details. He may be contacted through the Public Relations Commission, Village Hall.

Formal dedication of the memorial will be held in conjunction with the Memorial Day parade and services in May.

Dundee Rd. Walkway Seen as Certainty

A Cook County Highway Department official said this week the construction of an overhead walkway across Dundee Road at Cedar Lane will start in early May.

The estimated $60,000 walkway is needed because heavy traffic on Dundee makes it dangerous for school children who must cross at the intersection, District 21 and Wheeling officials say.

Jack London Junior High and Eugene Field schools are both near the intersection.

HUGO STARK, chief design engineer for the highway department, told the Herald that he expected to take bids in March. However, before the bids can be taken the State Division of Highways must approve the project, he added.

An agreement on easements with District 21 also must be signed. Stark said he did not foresee any difficulty with the school district, and officials indicate that the agreements will be signed.

The next step would be to get permission from the Cook County Board to advertise for bids said Stark. This should come by March, he added.

After construction is started in May, completion is scheduled for late July or early August according to Stark, in time for the beginning of school this fall

WINTER FUN BEGAN in Wheeling last week as the Park District opened its new ice skating rink back of the $190,000 Heritage Park building on South Wolf Road. Many youngsters spent the last part of their Christmas vacation testing the ice. If it got too cold on the rink they would warm up in the "warming house" at the northwest corner

Eye Doctor to Make 2nd Talk to Nurses

Wednesday evening, Jan. 25, will mark the second time around for Dr. Wayne Wilhelm and the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Nurses Club. Two years ago, he spoke to this group on contact lenses and brought with him a keretometer, an instrument for measuring the eye.

For this current meeting Dr. Wilhelm plans to show slides relating to glaucoma, a major cause of blindness in the over-35 age bracket, and a disease of insidious onset, according to the program chairman. Part of the film deals with the history of the tonometer, an instrument used in the diagnosis of glaucoma. The doctor will demonstrate the instrument at the meeting.

DR. WILHELM, who has been practicing in Wheeling for five years, graduated from the Illinois College of Optometry and served in the Medical Service Corp. of the Army.

Following his presentation, the remainder of the evening will be spent in discussion.

Members are reminded of the change in meeting place from Carl Sandburg School to the library of the Jack London Junior High. (S)

Medical Unit, Grocery Store Zoning Sought

A medical building and a grocery store is planned just outside Wheeling's south border on Elmhurst Road (Rt. 83).

Conrad G. Verges, Chicago, has asked the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals, to rezone the one acre site from R-3 single family to a B-4, general service business district.

A public hearing before the board is slated at 3 p.m. Friday, March 3 in the Arlington Heights Municipal Building.

The builder said the location of the site is 215 feet south of Hintz Road on the west side of Elmhurst Road, and just south of Wheeling High School.

NEW HALL, INDUSTRY EYED

Scanlon Lists Aims For Wheeling in 1967

By DAVID J. HANKS
News Editor

A new municipal building and more industry are two things Wheeling officials will be setting their sights for in 1967.

Looking into the future, Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon said this week he "hoped the board of trustees will be able to put the need for a new village hall before the people in a referendum."

SCANLON SAID, "We have outgrown the present village hall." And he added that he thinks village officials can show the people that there is a need for a new municipal center, including administrative offices, police and fire facilities.

The mere growth of the population of Wheeling beckons for new municipal building, he said.

The village president says obtaining more industry in Wheeling is a must in 1967. A 400-acre industrial area south of the village may become a reality this year. A meeting is scheduled this month to work out finances of water facilities for the site.

"We have many promises of industry coming to Wheeling," said Scanlon, but nothing definite has come of it. According to Scanlon "We are at a disadvantage because we presently do not recognize a pre-annexation ordinance."

THE BOARD presently chooses not to enact a pre-annexation law. A developer must first annex, then wait for a rezoning grant.

"I hope the board would consider adopting a pre-annexation ordinance in 1967," said the village president. This is something, however, that the entire board should agree on, he added.

A careful study must be made to determine if such a law would be beneficial, said Scanlon.

Scanlon expects the borders of Wheeling to expand even more in 1967. About 250 acres were annexed into the village in 1966. "We (the board) have met with several who want to annex to Wheeling."

BUT WITH growing pains comes headaches. Water, sewer facilities, as well as police and fire protection must be furnished to annexed areas. Though Wheeling has a good water supply, work needs to be completed on mains or lines carrying it to residents and industry.

For almost all of 1966 the village sewer, water and public health committee has been studying looping water mains in the south and north portions of the community.

In November Public Works Supt. Angelo D. Ventrella was told to survey the condition of all water mains in the village and report back to the board what repairs were needed. Action came after a break at Hintz Road and the Soo Line tracks forced most of the American Industrial area to be without water for more than six hours.

SCANLON said he hoped the board would take a "strong look" at capital improvements such as water lines, looping, and other upgrading needed. Because of dead ends, and lack of looping some areas, including residences, businesses and industrial complexes are out of water if a main break occurs in the wrong place, said Scanlon.

Scanlon said he would like to see stronger legislation so that dilapidated buildings in the community could be demolished quicker.

He plans to call for a "beautification and clean up effort on the part of the citizens."

THE VILLAGE president also believes the board might consider the need for a "full time fire department." Quick to point out that he thought the present volunteer department was doing a good job, Scanlon said if a new municipal building were built, a full time department would probably be needed.

"I am sure that Chief Bernie Koeppen would agree with me," he added.

Scanlon also said he hoped the overhead walkway at Dundee Road and Cedar Lane would become a reality in 1967. It was promised in 1966.

Major Schools Problem:

by DAVID J. HANKS

News Editor

Tremendous growth and how to deal with it will be the story in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove School District in 1967.

In a projection of the coming year, School Supt. Kenneth F. Gill said this week the district would need more schools or classrooms to accommodate the needs of the populous.

"We will make every effort to obtain more classrooms with state money," said Gill. In 1966 the district received $400,000 for classroom additions to Kilmer and Frost schools from the state building commission.

ACTUALLY THE money is loaned to the district with repayment over 16 years and no interest is charged.

"It is also obvious that we will have to have another referendum sometime this year for new school buildings, sites and additions," Gill added. The schools' superintendent pointed to the many developments that are planned in the big district as the reason why the new facilities will be needed.

The last referendum or bond issue for buildings was approved by a 5-1 margin by voters in October, 1963. With the completion of Oliver Wendell Holmes School this next year all funds from that referendum will be used.

"We're already beginning to get an influx of students from the Berkley Square development in the west part of the district. It is in the Village of Arlington Heights.

Americanism Essay Winner Announced

As part of a contest sponsored throughout the country by the Junior Chambers of Commerce, seventh and eighth grade students of District 21 recently wrote essays on the subject "What Americanism Means To Me."

The best paper from each social studies class at Jack London and Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High Schools was forwarded to the Wheeling Jaycees for final screening, and the winner was announced recently at an assembly.

The author of the winning essay, which has been entered in the state contest, is Jeffrey Hill, a seventh grade student at Holmes. Jeffrey, 11, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hill of 321 E. Mors Ave., Wheeling. As winner of the district contest, he received a $25 savings bond.

RUNNERS-UP in the district contest were Caryn Carlborg and Philip Hight of Holmes, and Vicki Prindle of London. Honorable mentions were awarded to Donna Boyer, Diane Corda, Kim Donohue and Tana Study, all of Holmes. All of the mentioned students were awarded certificates and lapel pin replicas of the Liberty Bell.

The results were announced by Robert Sorensen, Holmes counselor and social studies teacher, who is affiliated with the Wheeling Jaycees. In making the presentations, Sorensen stated that between 200 and 300 essays had been submitted to the contest, and that selection of the winning essay from among the finalists had been a difficult task. Beautification Group To Hold Film Survey

A review of a film survey and election of officers top tonight's agenda of the Wheeling Beautification Committee meeting.

The meeting begins at 8 p.m. at Heritage Park Field House, 222 S. Wolf Road.

The results will be shown tonight to the entire beautification committee.

HOPES ARE that the slides will be packaged into a presentation to be shown to various civic organizations in the village. The committee, in this way, hopes to enlist help in specific beautification programs.

Also at the meeting, the group will formally organize.

Five officials and 10 board members will be elected to head the massive beautification endeavor.

Names are to be submitted by the nominating committee, Mrs. E. W. Stephan, Mrs. Shirley Wilson, and Mrs. Gloria Nicholson.

Board members will seek ideas for beautification projects and then delegate programs to interested civic bodies and steering committee members.

Up to now, the self-appointed steering committee has initiated interest in the campaign and outlined some projects.

Library Board Meets Tonight

The regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Wheeling Public Library District will be held tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the library.

The regular Tuesday meeting was canceled because of the July 4th holiday.

'Main Street' Beauty Just Isn't So Often

Wheeling's Beautification Committee did and captured the grace and dilapidation along the town's "main street" on film.

The slide program, to be completed early in August, will be shown to local organizations in an attempt to get their support for a beautification project.

The tour starts at Wheeling's front door—unincorporated land in Cook County. Easements along the highway are weedy and in dire need of mowing. Broken and unpainted fences line the Milwaukee side of Pal-waukee Airport.

To the north, a modern apartment building graces the road with its well-kept lawn and glass exterior.

Along the side of the building, its parking lot is dirty and strewn with trash. There is no fencing to hide this view from the highway.

TRAVELING north, the tour enters Wheeling: Population 14,800. Commercial billboards and signs, screaming their advertisements, are back to back along the highway's fringe.

The slide survey committee will also suggest projects which may be undertaken by village organizations.

Two abandoned gas stations at the corner of Manchester Drive stand as a monument to negligence. Absentee landowners are difficult to reach and condemnation procedures time-consuming.

Boarded-up windows, abandoned cars and trucks, and scarred building exteriors mark the deserted stations as slums.

A SEA OF shopping carts pile up in a narrow alleyway between two other apartment buildings. Outdoor grills and children's toys are scattered among the carts. Weeds spout up through cracked sidewalks.

Scattered through the forsaken areas of Milwaukee Avenue are numerous homes, dating back to the 1800's. Many owners have kept the buildings in good repair. Yards are landscaped with flowers, trimmed lawns, and old trees.

Chairman of the film survey committee, Jack Bittner, told the group, "This is a factual presentation of what the village is — both the good and bad parts."

THE SURVEY team plans to go out this weekend and complete its work, snapping pictures of the village's other main thoroughfares, industrial areas and residential sections.

Takes Second In Lions Fete

The Wheeling High School Band is now one of the top bands in the nation.

One-hundred fifty musicians strong, the Wheeling bandmen marched to second place victory in the Lions International Parade in Chicago Wednesday afternoon.

The local high school band vied with 110 other top high school bands from throughout the United States. The band will receive $500 in prize money and a championship flag for its honor.

Band Director Dean DePoy told the Herald, "This is the biggest competition in the country." He explained that the Lions parade is as close to national competition as a marching band can get.

SPONSORED by Lion Clubs from District IF (Northern Illinois), Wheeling bandmen marched in the five-hour long parade. Estimated crowds of 75,000 viewed the event at any given time.

High school bands, many of them state champions, were judged on their marching ability, music, and general effect. A panel of seven judges did the selecting.

Competition was based on a 200-point system. Though he had not received official scores, DePoy said the Wheeling band was only three points below the first place winner, a Kansas high school band.

Group Command of Division 9-73.

A crowd of parents and well-wishers welcomed the band home Wednesday night.

WHEELING'S band played two numbers during the parade route: "Born Free" and a dual arrangement of "My Kind of Town" and "Chicago." Both numbers were specially arranged for the local band.

DePoy said now he's optimistic of the bands' next competition, the Minneapolis Aquatennial celebration July 14 and 15.

There Wheeling bandmen will defend their two-year championship. About 60 high school bands compete in the contest.

LABELED ONE of the most colorful parades in Chicago, the Lions International show Wednesday kicked off the 50th anniversary. Lions International originated in Chicago and now boasts chapters in 137 nations.

Following the parade, Wheeling bandmen traveled to Evanston to play the change of command ceremony at the U. S. Armory.

Industry Brochure Is Topic

A professionally designed brochure will be the topic of discussion at the Wheeling Industrial Commission Friday, July 21.

The commission rescheduled its meeting Wednesday because of the lack of a quorum.

Commission chairman Ray Roach said he is inviting local industrialists to the meeting to review the booklet and place orders. The brochures will be sent by the commission to firms interested in locating in Wheeling.

Designed by Don Duncan, a local professional advertising man, the brochure boosts Wheeling as a "village in layout and pattern-of-living with Big City ideas and impetus in its civic and industrial growth."

Record Signup Told For Wheeling Parks

Registration for the Wheeling Park District's summer program has hit a record of more than 400 youngsters and adults.

Park Supt. Ferdinand Arndt said 407 persons had registered during the first two weeks of the program. Last year, 250 youngsters were enrolled in the park program.

ARNDT SAID residents of Wheeling may still enroll for activities at the Heritage Park Field House, 222 S. Wolf Road.

Nearly 400 passes have been sold for the Wheeling Community Pool, Arndt reported. Of these, 380 were family passes.

Activities offered by the park district include arts and crafts, painting and puppets, drama, judo, softball, tennis, and swimming lessons.

Wheeling Is Site

Wheeling will be the scene of an interracial workshop, sponsored by the Friendship House in Chicago, this weekend.

Some 35 guests from the Chicago area and from out of state are expected to attend the meeting held at Childerly Farm on McHenry Road west of Route 83.

Theme for the July weekend is "Getting to the Basics of Racial and Spiritual Problems."

Mihalek President

Four officers were elected by the Wheeling Beautification Committee Wednesday night.

Chuck Mihalek, who had been acting-chairman, was elected president; Jack Bittner, vice president; Mrs. Dolores Stephan, secretary; and Mrs. Shirley Wilson, treasurer.

The committee delayed filling its 10-man board of directors until more members are involved in the organization and by-laws are formulated.

Mrs. Wilson was appointed chairman of the legislative committee which will study village, county and state ordinances. The group is expected to present its findings at the next meeting.

Wheeling Shop Plaza Holds 10th Year Fete

Wheeling's oldest shopping center is celebrating its 10th anniversary this weekend.

Located at Milwaukee Avenue and Dundee Road, the Wheeling Shopping Center today houses seven business firms. These include Jewel, Mark Drugs, Wheeling Stationers, Kotz Shoe Store, Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank, Gem Fashions and J. Edwards Men's Shop.

Featured during the three-day celebration which begins Thursday are prize drawings, sidewalk bargain sales, and a pop and hot dog stand.

Drawings will be held Thursday and Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday at 5 p.m. at the shopping center. Among the prizes are lounge chairs, hair dryers, child's bicycle and a grand prize of a weekend for two at the Wagon Wheel resort.

The anniversary sales promotion is headed by the Milwaukee-Dundee Shopping Plaza Merchants Association. The group was organized 10 years ago with the center.

President of the merchants association Mark Arno sees the shopping center as a "big corner drug store" tailor fit to serve the needs of the community.

IN THE HOMEY ATMOSPHERE of a Childerly farmhouse in Wheeling, a group of 30 Negro and white men and women discuss the racial and religious issues of the day. Sponsored by Friendship House of Chicago, last weekend's workshop featured discussions on "Teaching a Child How to Love" and "Black Power—The Salvation of the Church?" During the weekend, members of the group also visited with Negro families living in the northwest suburbs as part of the Home Visitation Program of Friendship House. Guests came to the workshop from Chicago and out of state. This month's workshop dealt with the theme of "getting to the basics of spiritual and racial issues.

Win or Lose— Welcome!

Win, lose, or draw at the Minneapolis Aquatennial—the Wheeling High Marching Band will be greeted by hundreds of parents and well-wishers.

A welcoming party will form behind the high school after 5 p.m. Sunday.

A local combo will provide entertainment until the busloads of band members arrive.

Wheeling's police department plans to escort the five buses into town.

THE BANDSMEN left Wheeling early this morning to defend their two year championship at the Aquatennial, which attracts some 60 high school bands from throughout the country.

If Wheeling wins this weekend, it will retire from the competition with the championship flag.

Sunday's "welcome home" is being organized by the Wheeling Public Relations Commission, with the cooperation of village board members, the police department, and local businessmen.

Village Pres. Ted Scanlon will head the group of dignitaries. Officials from Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, and Buffalo Grove as well as high school and elementary school representatives will be present.

Jaycees Give $132 to Band

The Wheeling Jaycees presented a check for $132 to the Wheeling High School Band Wednesday night.

Jaycee Pres. Harry McCullough made the presentation during the band's practice hour.

Money was raised through the Jaycees recent Sand Sale.

"THEY MAKE THEIR OWN LUCK" says Wheeling Band Director Dean DePoy in explaining the winning trend of the high school band. Hard practice, advanced planning, an unbeatable spirit and natural talent all contribute to the band's victories. The 280 students who form the core of the band practice eight to 12 hours a week. (Staff Photo)

'Hard Work' Makes Success

The Wheeling High School Band and victory—to bandmen and band backers, the words are synonymous.

In its brief, three-year history, the Wheeling Marching Band has captured top competition awards and national recognition.

Describing the ingredients that put the band on top, Band Director Dean DePoy said simply, "Plain hard work."

"The band probably spends more time in rehearsal than any other group in the area," said the youthful director. During the summer months, bandmen practice five to eight hours a week. And in the fall during football season and half-time shows, the band works a strenuous 12 hours a week.

BUT LOTS OF practice isn't all, DePoy quickly points out. Advanced planning, an unbeatable "esprit de corps," and a pool of talented musicians round out the winning recipe.

"Many band directors don't plan ahead, and their shows during a season look like it," said DePoy, who now is completing the work on music for this fall's shows.

He begins his pre-season planning immediately after the end of the previous one. DePoy's opinions on early planning and post-season evaluation will appear in next month's issue of the "Instrumentalist," a magazine for band teachers.

"The running of the Wheeling band," DePoy asserted, "is much like a company president running his business, because of the number of students and money involved."

DePoy runs his bulky 280-man band as an efficient organization. At the top of the pyramid are he and his assistant director Doug Peterson, who came to Wheeling High last fall from high school bands in Iowa.

BOB JOHNSON, senior student at Wheeling High, has led the marching band to victory during his three years as drum major. Rank leaders are in charge of drilling sections of eight bandmen.

A library staff of five co-eds keep the band's $7,000 worth of music in repair and order. A group of copyists transcribe music. And an equipment staff issues uniforms and band instruments as well as keeping inventory of the equipment.

Pride in themselves keeps Wheeling musicians winning. "They consider no one better than they are," DePoy remarked. The band's motto, which transcribed from Latin reads 'not as good as—but better than,' is printed on the drums and on a plaque in the band's practice room.

DePOY RECALLED the development of the band's "esprit de corps" from the diverse group of students of three years ago. When Wheeling High opened in 1964, students from three high schools and four junior high schools formed the band. "They regarded themselves still as part of their former bands," DePoy said.

But hard work pulled the students into one unit and the results snowballed as the band began capturing trophies and honors.

"Today, three years later," DePoy declared, "the student body, and even the greasers, back the band." Parental support comes from the Wheeling Instrumental League which has raised nearly $25,000 for band trips and equipment since 1964.

MUSICAL TALENT was DePoy's final ingredient in creating a championship band. He praised the good bands in Wheeling High's feeder schools—especially Jack London and Oliver Wendell Holmes junior highs.

"The main talent comes from Wheeling," DePoy stated, pointing out that three-fourths of next year's freshmen are from Wheeling. He also mentioned that new families often locate in the school attendance area, so their children could join the Wheeling band.

Since, February, 1965 when the band took its first award—second place in the Chicagoland Stage Band Contest—the group has captured honor after honor. The marching band was named the "Presidential Band of Chicagoland" in 1964 and has played for President Johnson five times.

It won the 1965 Championship and the 1966 Grand Championship High School Band at the Minneapolis Aquatennial.

TWO WEEKS AGO, Wheeling bandmen copped second place in the Lions International Parade competition in Chicago.

This weekend, the band is returning to the Aquatennial to defend its two-year championship and hoping to retire from competition with three years of winning.

The marchers are traveling north only after hours of rigorous practice. As DePoy said if they win it will not be because of luck but because they have made their own luck.

THE WHEELING COMMUNITY POOL, under private ownership but leased to the Wheeling Park District, is a favorite place for village youngsters to spend summer hours. But if youngsters grow tired of the pool, or can't swim to begin with and don't want to learn, what else can they do? Are village recreation programs adequate? (Staff Photo)

New Tax To Mean $45,000

The Wheeling Village Board voted this week to raise sales taxes in the village for both retail and service sales.

The village ordinance, increasing the retailer's occupation tax from one-half of one cent to three-fourths of one cent passed unanimously.

The board also raised service taxes to three-fourths of one cent.

BOTH LOCAL taxes become effective Aug. 1.

The village expects to receive about $45,000 more from the tax hike. Last year it received $87,000 from the retailer sales tax.

Asks Permit Ban To Curb Floods

(Following is a copy of a letter to Wheeling officials.)

As a flood-conscious citizen of Wheeling, I am against any more building of any kind which would drain storm water into the Wheeling drainage ditch. Inasmuch as the ditch is obsolete and obviously cannot hold any more water, let alone the present water, I feel any addition of water to the drainage ditch would create a health hazard and inflict unnecessary hardship on the citizens of Wheeling. (Wheeling Municipal Codes—17.40.030 sec. 2-19.68-010-19.68.080-5.20.020 and Code 364.)

THE VILLAGE board is presently conducting a flood plan survey for said area, and until this survey is completed and put into effect, I feel it my moral responsibility to encourage you to stop issuing building permits to any firm, corporation, builder or person who would use the drainage ditch for storm water run-off until the flooding problems are permanently solved.

TORCH

Program Now

Set To Start Directors Announce Successes

Clinic Opens Aug. 29

"The response to the program has been more than receptive."

These were the words of three directors from TORCH, (The Organization Representing Community Hopes), during interviews with the Herald this week.

"We have found that the public has a positive attitude toward the program," said David Lechner, project director of TORCH.

DURING THE last month, he and his undermanned staff have been converting the project from a written proposal to actual programs.

The project, which reaches into recreation, education, and social services, got under way June 20 with funds from Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. The $325,000 federal grant is spread over three years, with $150,000 allotted for the first year. Sponsor is Wheeling - Buffalo Grove School District 21.

Before the grant was approved, critics of the project voiced fear that it would usurp or overlap activities of other area organizations.

BUT TORCH backers contend that the extensive project will supplement existing activities as well as pioneer new ones.

Though a Director of Educational Services has not yet been hired, the two other directors are hard at work drawing up their plans. Both — the Director of Recreation and the Director of Social Services — intend to launch their programs late this summer.

All activities are free of charge to residents.

The TORCH area covers all of Wheeling - Buffalo Grove Elementary School District 21 and the Wheeling High School attendance area.

TORCH personnel will soon be moving to permanent offices in the community. Presently they are located at Dist. 21's administration building, 999 Dundee Road.

A Social Service Clinic under the auspices of TORCH will officially open Tuesday, August 29 at the District 21 administration building and Jack London Junior High School.

Social Service Director of TORCH, Ronald Rovin, announced the program will run on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Rovin is now in the process of hiring a paid staff of 11, including two psychologists, one social worker, four counselors, one nurse, one police-liaison officer, a consulting clinical psychologist and a receptionist-social service worker.

A VOLUNTEER staff will consist of field workers and practicum counselors from local colleges and universities.

The clinic will offer five group counseling sessions, individual counseling, as well as a parent information group. Included are — Family Group Sessions. Members of a family would meet with a clinic therapist to help the individual members of the family understand and cope with or change various interactions which go on in the family.

—Parent Group Sessions. Parents would meet during evening hours to explore the relationships between parents and children in an effort to help parents understand and cope with the problems they are encountering as they raise their youngsters.

—Handicapped Children's Parents Groups. These groups would have the same function as parents groups for parents of exceptional children.

Traffic Light Contract Will Be Let on Aug. 25

Contracts for a traffic light at the intersection of Elmhurst and Dundee Roads will be let Aug. 25. Installation of the lights is expected two weeks later.

Village and school officials have worked two years trying to get the light. Wheeling High School is on the northwest portion of the corner.

THE TRAFFIC lights will replace a four-way stop now in use.

Construction will be financed by the Illinois Division of Highways.

Wheeling backed its plea for proper traffic control at the corner by an accident survey submitted by the Wheeling Police Department early in 1966.

Program Unity Is A Goal

Included are Wheeling Park District, Buffalo Grove Park Commission, River Trails Park District, District 21 schools and Wheeling High School.

"I'M TRYING to get the districts to plan together," Vernon said, "especially in their fall programs." Summer schedules are in effect and cannot be changed.

His job is to coordinate the park and school systems so that their recreational facilities are utilized to the maximum. Vernon said he has found that the schools are not used during most evenings of the year.

TORCH will also supply space, equipment, and instructors for supplementary recreational programs. Activities will serve residents of all ages — from youngsters to adult citizens.

Wheeling Wins in Eleventh Inning

A sacrifice fly off the bat of Jeff Powell brought in Scott Bischoff with the winning run Sunday as Wheeling slipped by Elk Grove, 10-9, in the Northwest Suburban Baseball Conference.

Powell's drive to left came with one out in the top half of the eleventh inning and gave the mound victory to Jim Muelhausen.

Jack Fedyski, Tom Prince, and Muelhausen pitched for Wheeling with Muelhausen going the final six innings. He didn't allow a hit over the final four stanzas.

In the eleventh inning Scott Bischoff led off for Wheeling with a single. Greg Fedyski lined out to short, but Rich Os-

That's when Powell came through with his sacrifice fly.

Dave Powell and Rex Peterson each had three singles for Wheeling. Greg Fedyski banged out a double and triple and Steve Poulos had a triple for Wheeling.

Hank Tasche and Chesney supplied the long balls for Elk Grove with triples. Peters and Rezzuto worked on the hill for the losers.

Wheeling is scheduled to play host to Rolling Meadows tomorrow (Thursday) in another league encounter.

'Free for All' Fun Each Week

It's kind of a "free for all" Wednesday afternoons at the Heritage Park Building.

Some 80 Spanish-American youngsters from the Wheeling area descend on the park building for free recreation, including sports, games, and hand-crafts.

THE PROGRAM, tried for the first time this year, is being sponsored by the Migrant Ministry committee of the Glenbrook Council of Church Women through the cooperation of the Wheeling Park District.

Park district supervisors are on hand to direct activities and generally to keep the rambunctious youngsters in line.

The kids are transported to the weekly program by women from the Glenbrook Council's supporting churches.

Next week, the English, Spanish-American will take a first hand milk production at H Melody Farms in Liberty.

The weekly recreation program began June 21 and will continue until August 1.

'Flower Drum Song' Tickets Available

Tickets for "Flower Drum Song," a musical presented by the Wheeling High School Summer Chorus, are now on sale.

The fund-raising project for the Wheeling High School Community Scholarship Foundation will be held August 4 and 5 at the high school.

Tickets are available at Mark Drugs in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, Wheeling Stationers, Ben Franklin in Dunhurst and the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank.

Profits from the show will be used for college scholarship assistance for Wheeling High graduates.

Organized in 1966, the Foundation's first major fund-raising event was "Footlights to the Future"—a community variety show held last February. The first Foundation scholarships were awarded to members of the June, 1967, high school graduating class.

Success of the show inspired high school students to present their own show to raise funds for the Foundation.

"Flower Drum Song" is the cooperative venture between the students and adults to continue the scholarship assistance program.

Gala Banquet, Ceremony Set

The 1967 Minneapolis Aquatennial Queen of the Lakes will present the "grand championship" flag to Wheeling High School's Marching Band in ceremonies to be held Thursday, Sept. 8.

Miss Karen Ann Erlandson, 18, of Cokato, Minn., and Vice Commodore Allen Benzick, chairman Aquatennial Parades, will both give the flag to Director Dean R. DePoy. The band was judged the best unit in the Grande Parade of the Aquatennial on July 16.

A committee in Wheeling is planning to feté the band and its directors at a banquet which will start at 7 p.m.

Miss Erlandson and Benzick will be representing the Aquatennial Association of Minneapolis in the Wheeling ceremonies.

THE BANQUET IS being held to honor the outgoing members of the band and to raise funds to send the others back to Minneapolis next year to defend the championship flag.

Don Russ, who is in charge of the banquet, says he expects "1,000 persons" to attend the affair to be held in the high school field house at Hintz and Elmhurst (Rt. 83) Road.

Russ announced that Eddie Hubbard, noted disc jockey and announcer for WGN will act as master of ceremonies.

The band will play for the gathering, said Russ, and Miss Janet Buerger, Wheeling High School senior also will perform. An organist from Karnes Music of Des Plaines will play during the dinner.

According to Russ the queen, Miss Erlandson, will wear her royal robes and Commodore Benzick will be in full Aquatennial regalia.

THE BAND, which two years ago was named the most outstanding unit from outside Minnesota, this year was chosen as the best band.

It's the first time in the 27 year history of the Aquatennial celebration that a band from outside Minnesota has won the grand championship. Wheeling bandmen were competing with 60 other units from 14 states.

The prize winning band also performed for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who was grand marshal of the parade.

Heaps of praise were directed toward the band when it returned. Aquatennial managing director Kenneth Walstad complimented both the band and the ability of Dean DePoy, the director.

MORE THAN 1,000 persons, including village officials from Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Mount Prospect, as well as several school authorities, were on hand at the high school to greet the returning bandmen.

Tickets for the event will be on sale for $5 at the high school, Wheeling Bank, the village hall, Ben Franklin Store in the Dunhurst Shopping center.

Those wanting tickets may also buy them at Russ's office, 771 W. Dundee Road, Wheeling, or by calling him at 537-5050 or LARGE WINDOWS AT THE front of the Cartriseal plant in Wheeling are being repaired following Monday morning's devastation. Eight windows valued at $400 each were smashed and machinery and stock materials inside the building damaged by vandals. Losses are expected to reach $50,000 to $100,000, according to police. (Staff Photo)

Labor Strike Continuing

by Nancy Benco
News Editor

The Cartriseal Manufacturing plant in Wheeling was ravaged by heavy vandalism early Monday morning.

Losses due to damaged equipment, machinery and finished products could go as high as $50,000 to $100,000, according to the company's vice president William Laser.

The criminal damage occurred while nearly half of the company employes are striking for higher wages and other grievances.

But Laser told the Herald, "I don't blame our employes for any of this."

Laser said vandals damaged machinery in the main section of the plant. Included were mechanical shaft seals for airplanes vitally needed in the Viet Nam war. Cartriseal contracts with the government to produce this specialized seal.

POLICE FOUND cabinets overturned, machinery valuable to production smashed, and stock materials damaged. Eight large windows valued at $400 each in front of the building were broken by baseball bats, bricks, and pipe elbows, police said.

A labor picket who was maintaining a vigil outside the factory told police he was asleep and did not hear or see anything.

Lt. Llewellyn said several latent fingerprints were found on the wall and roof and machinery inside the building. Cartriseal employes are to be fingerprinted this week to eliminate their prints from those found.

Some 30 Cartriseal employes, represented by Amalgamated Local 310 of the UAW-CIA, have been out on strike since July 11. Picketers have maintained a 24-hour vigil at the plant since that time. Negotiations for renewing a contract which expired June 30 have reportedly reached a stalemate. No new meetings between management and the labor union are scheduled. The issues have been referred to the Federal Mediation Conciliation.

WHEN CONTACTED late Monday afternoon, union representative Tony Audio told the Herald he had not been aware of the damage done to the plant. "I know nothing about it," he said.

The two-year-old Cartriseal plant is located on Glenn Avenue in Wheeling's industrial area. Company vice president Laser said he welcomes the picketers back to work. "I feel that a majority of them want to return," Laser told the Herald. HE SAID the rubble had been cleaned up and normal production would resume Tuesday afternoon.

OKAY LEVY, INCREASE TAXES

13-Cent Hike Results

by NANCY BENCO
News Editor

Wheeling taxpayers will be paying more for village government next year than any other previous year.

In a quiet session Monday night, the Board of Trustees passed the 1967-68 levy ordinance which, in effect, raises village taxes by nearly 13 cents—from 43 cents in 1966-67 to 56 cents per $100 assessed valuation in 1967-68.

The substantial increase was not announced at the village board meeting Monday. Instead, trustees quickly approved the levy ordinance which had been prepared in advance by Village Atty. Paul Hamer, who is now on vacation.

The ordinance itself does not include a breakdown of tax rates though it contains the amount of revenue anticipated through taxes.

THE HIGHER tax rate is expected to bring the village $337,245—actually only a small portion of the total cost of operating. The village board this year approved a $2.1 million appropriations budget.

Expected revenue from real estate taxes, however, is nearly twice as high as last year. In 1966-67, Wheeling received only $176,000 from taxes.

The revenue will come from two main sources: a higher assessed valuation in the village and the 13 cent hike in tax rates.

Due to annexations and new buildings, the village estimated its assessed valuation this year at $50 million. Last year the valuation of property was $43 million.

Tax rates in each of the nine funds which make up the total village tax package either soared or remained on par.

Most of the increase was in the road and bridge fund. Last year, property owners were taxed only four cents per $100 assessed valuation for this fund. But due to a "step-up" in assessed valuation but school districts take more than $4 that amount

OTHER INCREASES were reflected in the general corporate or "housekeeping" fund from 24 cents to 25 cents; the street lighting fund from three cents to four cents; and the crossing guard fund to one cent.

The Civil Defense fund remained at three cents as did the public benefit fund at one cent. One cent decreases were indicated in both the social security fund and the police pension fund.

Though the board must levy a tax for interest on general obligation bonds (to pay for the current street program), the tax will be abated in December and motor fuel tax monies used to pay off the bonds.

The 17 cent levy is put in the levy ordinance but will not appear on tax bills.

Taxes for operating the village are only a minor part of a property-owners' total tax bill. Wheeling tax bills for 1966-

Okay $100,000 Street Payments

The Wheeling Village Board Monday approved payments of more than $100,000 for the current street program.

Approval was made for payment of $30,605 for the North Town paving project and $66,557 for the Old Town street paving program to Bolander Construction Company; $18,652 for the first payment for the Dunhurst paving to Allied Asphalt Paving Company; and $969 for soil testing to Novak, Dempsey and Associates.

The street work is part of an over-all street and sewer program to be completed this year at a cost of $1 million.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE "TRIANGLE" in Wheeling is in the near future. The village board Monday approved new zoning on lots 2 through 7. The petitioner Yarnall and Todd Chevrolet dealers plan to construct a new car sales office on lot 5 and an auxiliary used car office on lot 7, both fronting Dundee Road. Development of parcels 2 and 3, though rezoned, is not definite. Excluded from the petition was lot 1 which is rumored to be the future site of a K-Mart discount store.

Antique Car Show Slated for Fair

"Dreams on Wheels," an entertainment spectacular featuring eight antique cars, will be one of the many highlights of the three-day Labor Day Family Fair weekend celebration.

The program will be held at the football stadium at Wheeling High School Monday, Sept. 4 at 2, 4 and 7 p.m.

Directed by Peggy Sommers and James Downing of the Peggy Sommers Studio in Chicago, the show features an original script, continuity and choreography, and draws upon the singing, acting and dancing talents of entertainers from the northwest suburbs.

"DREAMS ON Wheels" spans fifty years of American history with songs, dances, memories and costumes representing the era of each antique auto.

The antiques include a 1910 Ford, a 1911 Maxwell, a 1913 Chevrolet, a 1923 Buick, a 1930 Rolls Royce, a 1929 Isota Fascini, a 1929 Packard and a 1936 Dusenbergs—all provided for by members of the Antique and Classic Automobile Clubs of America.

The cast of entertainers include Inga Polan, who has appeared in theatres and night-clubs throughout the United States; Howard Plat, a versatile young man currently staging at Drury Lane Theatre on Chicago's southwest side; Diane Ulrich a recording artist; Don Beth, a folk musician; Carol Craine, actress and comedienne, and many others.

THE CAST will be supplemented by a group of local entertainers including Bob Reinhold, Jean Ruechaw, Bob Bush and Mary Field of Park Ridge.

Sponsors of the antique auto show are Grace's Glamor Beauty Salon, Wheeling Stationers, the Odd and End Shop, Wheeling-Chicago Auto Auction Corp., Enis Brothers Motors, Historical Society, Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank, Lord's Northwest Cocktail Lounge; Amvets Auxiliary Post 66, McIntyre Lumber and Supply Co., and Yarnall and Todd Chevrolet Dealers.

Koeppen Sets Group Goal: Quick Remodeling of Hall

A remodeling job for the old village hall before the "snow flies."

That's the goal of the Wheeling Historical Society as voiced by its new president John Koeppen Wednesday night at the annual installation meeting.

After taking over the new post, Koeppen outlined a five-point program to begin repairing the 70-year-old building, located on South Milwaukee Avenue next to the water tower.

And, for once, the group has money available for the rebuilding project. It just received a $5,000 check from the Wheeling Township clerk's office. Wheeling's share of the surplus funds from the township.

KOEPPEN'S PLAN, approved by the society members, is to get bids for the following projects: 1) masonry work which would seal off the old, unused basement and level off the warped floor, 2) work on the heating, plumbing and electrical systems of the old building, 3) purchase of storm windows to fit over the present windows and a small air conditioner, 4) paint the exterior of the frame building, 5) paint the flag pole outside the building and get flags from the state capitol building.

Society members gave Koeppen authorization to spend a maximum of $500—with the approval of two other board of directors—for the repairs.

Hopes are that the building will be repaired enough by the end of November that the group could meet there. Currently the society meets at the "new" village hall on Dundee Road.

HURRY TO GET the building into good shape also resulted from the fact that it was labeled as an "eyesore" by a Plan Commission listing of hazardous buildings in town.

Together with furbishment of the building, the historical society is intensifying its membership drive. Persons interested in becoming a member should contact Koeppen.

In addition to Koeppen's installation, Merle Willis, retiring president, was installed as director of the museum, a newly-created post. Julius Benjamin was installed as vice president; Dorothy Forke as secretary, Lucille Schneider as treasurer and Hazel Willis as curator. Members of the board of directors are Dr. Ian Taylor, Marshall Balling and Sam Dattilo.

The installation was held at Borchardt's Restaurant.

CRIME RATE LEAPS 21% IN ONE YEAR

The number of major crimes in Wheeling this year has leaped by 21 per cent over last year.

According to Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher's monthly report to the village, the police department registered 204 complaints in the first seven months of the year. During the same period in 1966, there were only 168 similar offenses.

Horcher, in commenting about the reasons behind the startling increase, said, "There is no one answer. Much is dependent upon the social and family involvement relating to those persons committing the offenses."

He added that correction must begin at the community level, "especially for those children who grow up in an environment which leads to their criminal activity."

HORCHER SAID Wheeling's increasing crime rate does not differ much from the national average, which experienced a 1.4 over-all increase in 1966.

In Wheeling during the month of July, police conducted 102 criminal investigations — clearing 37 cases. The remaining 58 are still pending.

Twenty-nine of the investigations involved petit larceny, the majority of which were stolen bicycles.

There were four cases of burglary, two of grand larceny, and one auto theft.

The remaining minor offenses include 29 disorderly conduct cases, one drunkenness case, two sex offenses, and six other assaults.

Auto accidents also took a great part of the police department's time in July. Though the number did not increase, the severity of the accidents did,

according to Horcher. Police investigated 20 auto accidents in July, bringing the year's total to 161 accidents.

POLICE, in addition, handled 196 other traffic violations, among them speeding and parking.

According to Horcher's report, criminal and traffic cases take up only 20 per cent of police work.

The bulk of the department's activity involves service calls— which have increased both for the month and for the year.

In July, police answered 459 calls or a seven per cent jump over the same month in 1966. The year's total number of service calls also went up by 2 per cent over the same period in 1966.

Service calls include lost dogs, lost children, lost property, children playing in streets, noisy parties, medical emergency assistant, building security checks, and suspicious persons types of complaints.

DEBORAH TAYLOR was crowned "Miss Wheeling of 1967" during pageant ceremonies Friday night. Deborah is 16 and lives at 222 Sarah Court. Here she receives a diamond tiara from Alice Green of the Delores Eiler Dance School. Deborah's court includes Darlene Malin, 16, of 102 S. Milwaukee Ave., and Beth Louise Wilson, 15, of 330 S. Milwaukee Ave. The competition was sponsored by the Amvets Auxiliary, Post 66 of Wheeling. The queen and her court will ride in the Family Fair Parade this weekend. (Staff Photo)

TOP MOUSE—A huge Mickey Mouse watches benignly over his Mouseketeers, who are all children of members of the St. Joseph the Worker Catholic Woman's club. The float, entered by the woman's club, won third prize in the Wheeling parade.

Wheeling Honors Walt Disney

Mickey Mouse, a Noah's ark, the Fifth Army band, decorated bikes, gaily colored costumes, and balloons all were part of the recent "Salute to Walt Disney" parade held in Wheeling.

Thousands of residents lined the village streets to watch the event. The parade was part of the 6th annual "Family Fair" which includes games, puppet shows, dance contests, and the parade, and which was sponsored by the Wheeling Community council.

Square Dance Float

Entries ranged from a square dance float with actual persons dancing on the float, to a papier mache Christ blessing a church, to the Walt Disney floats. First prize was won by a Noah's ark, entitled "God the Creator and Disney the Re-Creator," made by members of the First Baptist Church of Wheeling.

"A Disney Tree," whose branches were filled with various Disney cartoon characters, won second prize. The float was made by the Wheeling Junior Woman's club. Third prize was won by the St. Joseph the Worker Catholic Woman's club, whose float depicted a huge papier mache Mickey Mouse and his Mousketeers, who were children of the woman's club members.

Other prizes were given to the best decorated bikes and for children's costumes. The square dance float won a special award.

Old Autos Shown

Other entries included seven antique cars, donated by the Northwest Antique Auto association. The two-day fair ended with a special auto show. Skits depicting the times of each auto were presented.

A 1911 Maxwell, for example, took a family of the early 1900's on a family picnic, while a 1923 Buick was the limousine for gangsters of the 1920's. A 1920 Rolls Royce carried important leaders of the day while the 1967 Chevrolet was the background for mod dancers.

Other events during the fair included puppet shows, games, prizes, cake walks, and movies.

County Council Now a Reality

BY THOMAS BUCK

The Cook County Council of Governments has become a reality as the result of the election of a 20-man executive committee to direct its operation.

The executive committee was elected last week at a meeting of more than 250 suburban officials as the final move of several months of planning for the new organization.

The new Council of Governments originally was promoted by Richard B. Ogilvie, Republican president of the Cook county board, as a means for achieving greater cooperation among 600 suburban governments of various types in solving metropolitan problems.

Protects Local Autonomy

As a cooperative organization, the new council also is considered to be a counter-move against any attempts to establish a more formal type of metropolitan government that might endanger local autonomy of suburban governments.

After the election of the executive committee, Ogilvie indicated that he now wants to take a back seat in the direction of the council. At the same time, however, he pledged suburban officials the continued cooperation of the county government.

"We are ready and willing to work with you on programs such as the need for more effective air pollution control," Ogilvie told the suburban officials.

"As another example of our desire to cooperate, the experts at the forest preserve district are ready to join in a county-wide campaign against the spread of Dutch elm diseases," he added.

More effective air pollution control on an area-wide basis and a broader fight against Dutch elm disease have been listed as two of the first priority projects of the new Council of Governments.

Helping in the organization of the new council as co-chairman of a general committee have been Richard W. Withers, mayor of Blue Island, and Jack D. Pahl, president of Elk Grove Village. The new 20-man executive committee is to meet soon to elect a chairman.

Withers and Pahl were elected to the executive committee, and Ogilvie is to continue to serve as an ex-officio member of the council. The Cook county board's representative on the council's executive committee will be Charles Grupp Jr., a board member from the southern part of the county.

Others elected to the council's executive committee were Bernard G. Cunningham, president of Park Forest; Fred Dumke, president of Oak Lawn; George Dolezal, mayor of Berwyn; John D. Emery, mayor of Evanston; John G. Woods, president of Arlington Heights; Daniel Congreve, president of Mount Prospect; William G. Mason, president of LaGrange; Theodore Scanlon, president of Wheeling; Ernest Maxey, president of Robbins, and Stephen Barcik, president of North Riverside.

Others elected to the executive committee were Andrew H. Watters, supervisor of Oak Park township; Mark H. Clayton, supervisor of Northfield township; Evert C. Schultz, supervisor of Thornton township; Robert Fitzpatrick, park commissioner of Oak Forest; Roger Bjorvik, secretary of the Palatine park district; Dr. Donald Thomas, superintendent of Elk Grove elementary school district No. 59, and Dr. James Logsdon, superintendent of Thornton high school district No. 205.

All Are Represented

Under by-laws adopted at last week's meeting, every member government will be represented in a general assembly and will have one vote in that assembly.

As the general policy making body, the assembly is to meet at least once a year to review the work of the executive committee and various technical committees which are to be formed.

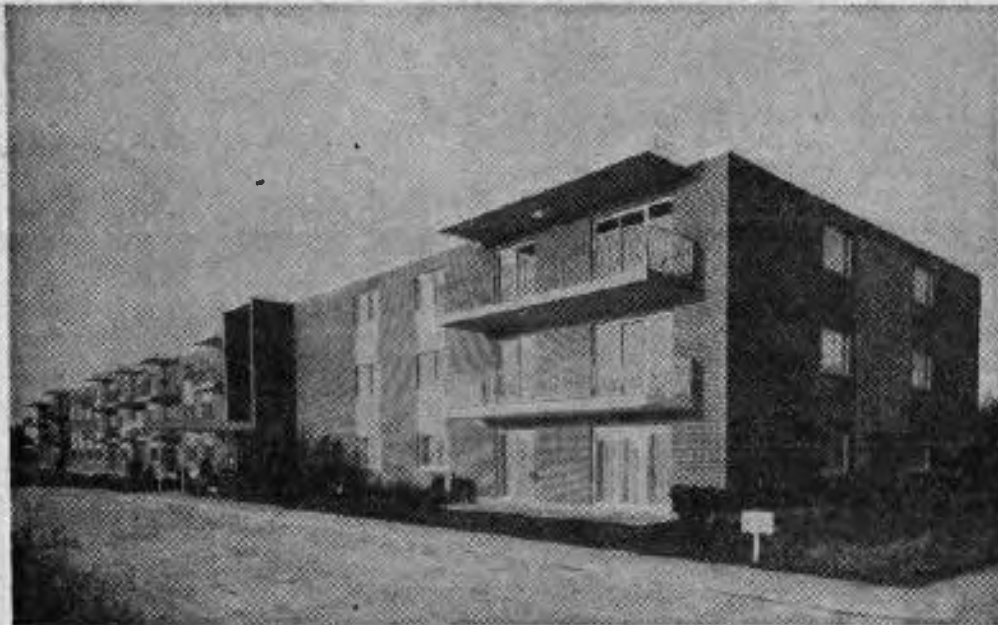

It is expected that special meetings of the general assembly will be called during the year to consider major recommendations of the executive committee on pressing problems.

First Teen Club To Open Sept. 8

The opening of Wheeling's first teen club—The Ultimate Goal—was announced this week by owner Gary Lightfoot.

The Friday night dance club will open Sept. 8 at the Amvets Hall, 141 S. Milwaukee Avenue.

Heading the list of celebrities at the opening night are WCFL disc-jockeys Dex Card and Jerry G. Bishop. Three big bands—The Cottage Cheese Funeral, The Edge of Nowhere, and The Evening Breezes—will entertain from 8 to 11 p.m.

Lightfoot told the Herald the club will be open to all teens 14 years of age and older. He has booked the Amvets Hall for Friday night for the rest of the year.

A policeman will be on duty at the club for the safety of the patrons.

The Wheeling club is Lightfoot's second club. He opened The Ultimate Goal club in Lake Villa nine months ago and it has been a big success with teens there.

The young owner said if the club proves successful here, he will look for a more permanent location.

Admission is $2 per person and after a few weeks, Lightfoot plans to issue membership cards. The card could be used at his Lake Villa club.

Combo groups he plans to book in following weeks include The Cryan Shames, The Mauds The Pride and Joy and the Riddles.

Name Barden To Village Commission

The Wheeling Village Board appointed Michael Barden, 399 Park Avenue, to the fire and police commission this week.

Barden replaces former chairman Lloyd Kelm, who resigned this summer. The term expires April 30, 1968.

The appointment ended a two-month hassle over the legality of choosing Robert Joseph Weber, an assistant United States attorney, for the past three attorneys agreed he held a "lucrative" job and was not eligible for the commission post.

The board Monday, following the recommendations of Village Pres. Ted Scanlon, appointed Barden to the vacancy on the three-man commission.

Bardin, owner of the Wheeling Paint and Glass Co., was interviewed Monday night.

IT'S BACK TO SCHOOL FOR MOST KIDS. Here, Wheeling High School student Robert Walkowicz, 5 Debbie Drive, Mount Prospect, receives his bus pass from Mrs. Charlotte Kelly. Buying new books and supplies, paying course fees, and all the other preliminaries for the trek back to school

A SEVEN-FOOT TOBACCO PLANT is growing in the backyard of the Lloyd Thompsons, 127 Wolf Road, Wheeling. Topped with purple flowers, the plant was imported from a tobacco plantation in North Carolina and planted here. Mrs. Thompson attributes the good soil and sunlight to the massive growth —unusual even in its natural habitat in the South where the plant grows only two to three feet. Unfortunately, Mrs. Thompson reported, neither she nor her husband smoke.

'Improved' Label Given to Wheeling's Harrier Squad

by KEITH REINHARD

"We definitely have more depth this year. I would say we'll be a much improved team in 1967."

With these words coach Ken Carter summed up the optimistic situation in the Wheeling cross country camp as the first week of practice drew to a close. The task falling upon him and coach Gary Tjarks shortly will be one of bringing the Wheeling harriers up from the basement and into the thick of the Mid-Suburban League race.

Nearly 40 runners, 17 of them varsity candidates, have been working out in preparation for Wheeling's Sept. 14 opener. For the upperclassmen, supported by five experienced returning runners, the 'Cat goal this season will be to shrug off any mementos of a winless '66 loop slate.

HEADING UP the list of returnees is letterman Phil Smith, voted most valuable, most improved and a team captain last season. The lanky senior finished eighth in his district meet a year ago and figures to be among the top conference runners this fall.

The other returning letter bearers who should score high for the Wildcats in '67 are Len Eaton and Andy Black. Eaton is also a former team captain and hopefully he will return to the form he displayed before undergoing a knee operation last season.

Two other veteran senior runners, Steve Mykytiuk and Jim Weber, could round out Wheeling's top five. But they'll face a strong opposition from at least a half a dozen up from the soph squad this year including juniors Keith Grecens, Austin Trice, Paul Royer and Tom Yockey and sophs Greg Gawlik and Frank Savage.

AS FRESHMAN Gawlik and Savage both earned soph letters and ranked among the top half dozen in performance. The sophs as a unit also did better than their upper-level parts a fall ago, taking the conference and sp 8-5 overall mark.

"Gawlik, especially, a pleasant surprise," to Carter, who sees him one of the reasons why the team will improve on its 3-10 overall record.

Carter will be entering his third year at the Wheeling school and Tjarks is commencing his fourth year of cross coaching at the school.

A group which has broken away from the regular Wheeling Township Democratic Organization will hold its first meeting Friday night in Arlington Heights.

The Wheeling Township Independent Democratic Organization will hold a "get acquainted" meeting starting at 8 p.m. in the Merle Guild American Legion Post No. 208, 121 N. Douglas.

The new Democratic group is headed by Herman Koeneman, an Arlington Heights resident who has been active in politics for 11 years. He said he is forming the organization to "strengthen the existing Democratic Party in Wheeling Township."

Committeeman James Stavros, who heads the regular Wheeling Township Democratic Organization, said he did not think forming a splinter group would help the Democrat's cause in the township.

"THE ONLY way to strengthen the Democratic organization is to join forces," he added.

Koeneman and his wife Lee, formerly secretary to Stavros, broke with the regular Wheeling Township Organization shortly after the November election last year.

The new group's purpose is to inform citizens about party matters, said Koeneman. The new organization hopes to attract Independents too, he added.

A guest speaker is expected at the meeting.

Mrs. Koeneman told the Herald Tuesday that 75 per cent of the Democratic precinctmen in the Stavros organization were supporting the new group.

Stavros sharply denied this was true. He added that the only precinct captains the group has are the "dissidents."

The bitter dispute came to the surface between the Koenemans and Stavros last November when, on election night, Mrs. Koeneman charged that the long-time Democratic committeeman had not worked for her husband.

Koeneman ran on the Democratic ticket for Cook County Commissioner and was soundly defeated.

Mrs. Koeneman also told the Herald her husband's organization hoped to "bring back the wandering Democrats in the area."

IN NOVEMBER and since Mrs. Koeneman has charged that Stavros' organization had only worked for State Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights), and not for the other Democratic candidates, Stavros denies this is true.

In a statement to the Herald

Mrs. Koeneman said Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, chairman of the Cook County Central Democratic Committee, knows about the formation of the new group. When asked if Daley approved of the new group, Mrs. Koeneman replied "he hasn't said yes or no."

At one point in his conversation with the Herald, Stavros quipped, "Who's running the new organization, Herman or Lee? Who's wearing the pants in that family?" he added.

Mrs. Chapman strongly supports the Stavros organization.

Benefit Baseball Goes Wild

See Koeppen's Hoofers charge against Scanlon's Grazers this Saturday in a wild game of Donkey Baseball.

The fun begins at 8 p.m. at Heritage Park, 222 S. Wolf Road, Wheeling.

Sponsored by the local Amvets and VFW organizations, the game is being played to raise funds for the Wheeling Veterans' Memorial, built last spring at Heritage Park.

Local riders will be used for the exhibition.

ON THE opposing line-up, tagged "Scanlon's Grazers" are Ted Scanlon, Dan Owen, Bernard Erlin, Andy Neargarder, Tom Shirley, Mark DeFore, Ron Fields, Jack Mayer, and Richard Missing.

Replacements are Ed Schlangen, Alf Wilson, Ken Gill and Ralph Hunter.

The ball game, reputed to be wilder than a rodeo and funnier than a circus, is played entirely on donkey-back. The only two-legged players are the pitcher and catcher.

There are no strikeouts in the seven-inning game.

New Clinic Opens Door to Referrals

Referrals are now being accepted for the new Social Service Clinic located at Jack London Junior High School in Wheeling.

Sponsored by Wheeling-Buffalo Grove District 21's Title III federal grant, the clinic officially opened last week with workshop training sessions for the 11-man staff.

Clinic director Ronald Rovin said he is accepting referrals for the clinic. He is also seeking persons interested in joining several group therapy sessions, among them a mothers' group, a teenage discussion group, a handicapped children's parents group, and parent and family group sessions.

"OUR MAJOR aim is to help the people in this area develop attitudes and behavior patterns desirable for them," Rovin said. He cited the help parents and their teenage children who have conflicting attitudes could get at one of the clinics group sessions.

"Groups will be started, as soon as we have enough of a backlog of referrals to schedule them," Rovin said.

Rovin can be reached at District 21's administration building 999 W. Dundee Road or at 537-8270.

Sessions will be held Monday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. and Saturday between 9 a.m. and noon at Jack London Junior High, 1001 W. Dundee Road.

Rovin added that if enough people are not interested in certain therapy sessions, his staff will design new ones to serve the needs of the people in the area.

HE EXPECTS the clinic to handle about 80 cases in a year. Financed by a federal grant under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, the clinic is only one of several other Title III projects.

There is a recreational area, a returnee dropout and practical arts program, and adult evening classes. Title III is an offspring of TORCH, an organization of community leaders from Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, and Prospect Heights.

Man Dies in Hit-and-Run

Lake County police are looking for a car which struck and killed a Northbrook man as he crossed Milwaukee Avenue north of Wheeling late Saturday night.

Charles L. Vick Jr., 30, of 520 Alice Drive, Northbrook, was pronounced dead on arrival at Condell Hospital in Libertyville.

Sheriff's police said Vick was fatally injured while walking across the highway just north of the Turf and Twig restaurant. His body was pushed 48 feet north on the pavement by the auto, which police said apparently was going at a high rate of speed. There were no skid marks on the road.

Lake County police, who were aided by the Wheeling police department, said the unknown vehicle would have a damaged right headlight and right fender.

Vick is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vick and a brother and sister.

Village Hall Forum Set for Tonight

Residents of Buffalo Grove will have an opportunity to ask questions about the Sept. 12 municipal hall referendum at public forums set for tonight (Wednesday) and tomorrow.

The forums, sponsored by a special blue-ribbon commission on the village, will be held at 7 p.m. at Emmerich Park Field House both nights.

Village Pres. Donald Thompson is scheduled to discuss the plan and architect's drawing of the proposed municipal building. Trustee Robert Gleeson will discuss methods of financing the $200,000 facility.

A question and answer period will follow.

Voters last April defeated a similar referendum calling for $225,000 for the building. Since then, the special commission, composed of village officials and citizens, has trimmed $25,000 from the estimated cost of the new building.

Skil Corp. Building Begins

WED., SEPT. 6, 1967

WHEELING VILLAGE PRES. Ted Scanlon and Skil Corp. Pres. John W. Sullivan initiate construction of Skil's new Wheeling power tool plant. They are shown dipping a Skil vibrator into the first concrete poured on the site.

Wheeling Village Pres. Ted Scanlon and Skil Corp. president John W. Sullivan initiated construction by using one of the firm's concrete vibrators to settle the first "concrete pour" on the foundation of the plant.

Slated for completion in spring, 1968, the plant will house production facilities for the power tool company's most popular consumer products.

LOCATED on the southwest corner of Palatine and Wolf Roads on a 68-acre tract, the plant will be the largest industrial plant in Wheeling when complete. C. F. Murphy Associates, Chicago, are architects for the project, while Bulley and Andrews, Chicago, hold the construction contract.

Founded in 1924 to manufacture and market the Skilsaw circular saw, Skil now produces more than 200 electric, air and gas powered tool models for the home, industry, and construction trade.

The firm, which started in an 810-square-foot loft at St. Clair and Grand in Chicago, will operate six United States manufacturing plants when the Wheeling factory is completed.

Internationally, the Chicago-based enterprise has production facilities in the Netherlands, Australia, Canada and Mexico.

Last year's net sales reached $48,418,127.

Woman Hurt

A Wheeling woman was slightly injured in an auto accident Saturday afternoon at the corner of Dundee Road and Milwaukee Avenue.

Sandra K. Forgue, 692 Sandra Lane, a passenger in a car driven by Eugene Forgue, 35, suffered side pains and an injured right knee. She was taken to a family doctor.

Police said Forgue's car, moving west on Dundee Road, collided with an eastbound car turning left onto Milwaukee Avenue, driven by Dominick Gomez, 24 of Antioch.

Police ticketed Gomez on a charge of failure to yield the right of way.

Referendum

The Wheeling-Buffalo Grove District 21 School Board will meet tomorrow (Thursday) to discuss the need for a school building referendum this fall.

The meeting is set for 8 p.m. at the administration building, 999 W. Dundee Road.

'So There I Was in This Hospital...'

LABOR DAY WEEKEND turned out to be more than just a pre-school holiday for Bryan Schlueter, 3, of 611 N. Williams, Palatine. He was one of hundreds who, for one reason or another, found themselves in an emergency room of one of the area hospitals. Though his injury was not major, from the instant he stood at the reception desk with his father's hand resting reassuringly on his head, through the sewing up of a chin cut, the reward of two suckers from nurse Mrs. Patricia Riggs, to his departure down that long corridor, it was quite an experience for Bryan. See Story on Page 4.

Traffic!

Traffic!

by CLIFFORD G. ROWE

(Fifth in a series on the role of the suburban police)

Irving Park Road, York Road, Kirchoff, Algonquin, Elmhurst Road, Higgins, Golf — the names of major northwest suburban thoroughfares.

Each could also be the name of a rush-hour commuter's nightmare.

And each is fed by dozens of other smaller arterials which are only slightly lesser bad dreams of traffic congestion.

To local police departments they are a constant source of concern and frustration.

AS QUICKLY AS ONE BOTTLENECK is widened or otherwise engineered to accommodate increased industrial, residential and commuter traffic, another develops.

An example is the Western Electric plant on Golf Road in Rolling Meadows. Each evening as that plant lets out, better than 1,000 employes hit Golf Road in less than a 30-minute period.

Because of this concentrated congestion, the state widened Golf Road to the west of the plant, and Western Electric, itself, further eased the problem by extending the added lane into the plant grounds thus allowing quicker vacation of its parking lots.

And between 4:10 and 4:30 p.m. two Rolling Meadows policemen are stationed at that plant to direct the flow of plant personnel onto Golf.

Personal Tax Bill Alive!

by DAN PRIBILSKI
Political Editor

The adjourned session of the Illinois Legislature, reconvening Monday, Sept. 11, may prove to be more noise than productivity.

However, one issue which may scare the Cook County taxpayers out of their pants is the bill for obtaining auto licenses by showing personal property tax receipts.

In Cook County, where paying personal property taxes is somewhat of a joke, this bill is no joke. The bill is still alive.

THE PERSONAL property auto-tag bill will come up before the Sept. 11 session of the Illinois Legislature.

However, the Republican leadership of both houses has said that such pending legislation, including other bills besides this one, will be tabled.

The adjourned session, which will convene at noon Monday, continue through Tuesday and then possibly be reconvened the following Monday, will undoubtedly consist of the following:

- Attempts to resurrect the civil rights-open housing bills.
- Consideration of vetoes by

Historical Society Gifts Roll In

BY ELEANOR PAGE

TRUSTEES OF THE Chicago Historical society have participated 100 per cent in contributing to the society's building fund, the president, Andrew McNally III, announced at the 110th annual meeting yesterday in the museum building in Lincoln Park.

Their combined gifts, together with the gift of the former president, William McCormick Blair, and Mrs. Blair, amounts to more than 10 per cent of the $2,500,000 goal to finance a major expansion program.

The Philip K. Wrigleys' gift of $118,000 got the campaign off to a good start, Mr. McNally told members of the society and of the Guild, its women's arm. "The Chicago Community Trust gave $100,000, the Woods Charitable Trust contributed $50,000, and thru the good offices of Mrs. C. Phillip Miller we received $25,000 from the Schermerhorn Trust. A bequest of $135,390 from the Berthe Martin estate, and a residual cash distribution of $22,500 from the Sterling Morton estate, greatly augmented our total," he revealed.

Mr. McNally also pointed out that other major gifts had come from Mrs. Sterling Morton, the John G. Searles, Blake Blair, and Mrs. Henry Scarborough, and that Bryan Reid Jr., chairman of the fund drive, has no professional assistance in the campaign. Instead, one special committee calls on foundations and corporations and another contacts individuals.

By way of special recognition the trustees voted to elect as patrons of the society all persons who make a contribution of $1,000 or more to the building fund. So far, 32 persons have.

A new wing and considerable remodeling are in the expansion plans, and yesterday after a talk by Louis C. Jones, director of the New York State Historical association on "Is It Folk, and Is It Art," guests saw exhibits representing four centuries of American Folk art in one of the remodeled galleries.

The gallery is dominated by a large oil painting of

New Orleans in 1803 by Boqueto de Woiseri, which ranks high as an American primitive, said a society official. It was recently restored.

News Flash #1

Lyan [Mrs. Phillip W.] Hummer telephones that "Doctor Dolittle," which will open in Chicago as a benefit for the Latin school, is coming two months earlier than expected. It will be here Dec. 20 at the Michael Todd theater, the night after the New York premiere, and all of the stars [maybe not Rex Harrison] will be present for the opening and for a champagne supper afterwards. Samantha Eggar, Anthony Newley, and Richard Attenborough, are expected, and tickets will cost $25, $20, $15, and $10.

Thanksgiving Play

The Historical society's auditorium will be filled with rapt children for two performances at 1 and 2:30 p. m. tomorrow when the Chicago Junior League evening group puts on "The Magic Picture." Mrs. Robert True has learned authentic sign language and Narragansett Indian dances for her role in this story adapted and directed by Patrick Henry of the Goodman theater which compares Thanksgiving in a Pilgrim family of 1620 with one in Chicago today.

Mrs. Tyler Cain made most of the costumes and the group members, most of whom are working girls by day, made the 9 by 15-foot picture frame out of which the Pilgrim family members step to join the Chicago group.

Admission tomorrow is 75 cents for adults, 50 cents for children. Special performances for public school children will be given the next three Saturday mornings.

News Flash #2

Merrilee [Mrs. Richard] Wehman phones the news that because John Reich, Goodman theater director, is ill, he will be replaced by Newton Minow, former F.C.C. director and president of the WTTW/Channel 11, and the educational television station's executive director. Indian Center to Purchase Temple

Directors of the American Indian center, 738 W. Sheridan rd., plan to sign a contract tomorrow to purchase for $100,000 the Ravenswood Masonic temple, 4605 N. Paulina st., as a new location for the center's programs.

The center should begin its move to the new quarters Wednesday, with the entire shift expected to take about three months, said Robert Reitz, executive director. The contract provides for the Masons to use the third floor of the lodge as a meeting place for four years.

The center will pay for the building with a bequest left to it in 1964 by the Verna R. L. T. Ewen estate. The late Mrs. Ewen was an Evanston resident.

Will Stipulated Use

Negotiations for the purchase began in August, Reitz said. "The stipulation in the will was that the money could only be used to purchase a building for the Indian center," he said.

The center's present quarters are owned by Sinclair Refining company. The real estate managing agent has notified the building's tenants that leases will not be renewed next year.

The latest expiration date of some of the leases, including that held by the Indian center, is May of next year, said Edward Weiss, property manager.

House All Activities

Reitz said the five-story building purchased from the Masons will provide adequate facilities for all of the center's programs and offices. These include administrative and executive offices, welfare and assistant programs, and social activities such as Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Alcoholics Anonymous, and women's clubs.

Incorporated in 1957, the center began activities unofficially in 1952, when Americans of Indian descent in the Chicago area formed a benevolence association.

Today, the center operates on an annual budget of $96,000. It obtains about 42 per cent of its income from the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy, with the balance coming from private contributions, Reitz said.

Last year, the center served about 5,000 individuals thru its family counseling services, and about 2,600 persons thru its social activities.

One of the major programs is an after school "explorer" program for children in grade school, Reitz said. "The activities are designed to relate their classroom education with the world they live in," he said.

Two full-time staff members and 14 college student counselors provide the personnel.

One of the center's major fund-raising projects is a yearly pow-wow, which features ceremonial tribal dances and the exhibit and sale of Indian arts and crafts. The 14th annual pow-wow will be from 7 to 10 p. m. Nov. 10 and from 1 to 10 p. m. Nov. 11 and 12 in the armory building, 234 E. Chicago av.
